STATE OF NEW YORK

No. 2.

IN ASSEMBLY,

JANUARY 6, 1904.

The Governor's Message.

STATE OF NEW YORK:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,

ALBANY, N. Y., January 6, 1904.

To the Legislature:

I herewith submit my fourth annual message. The condition of the State's finances is most gratifying. Our receipts are nearly equal to payments, and with the large surplus on hand, it needs only prudence and wisdom upon the part of the Legislature to make unnecessary a direct tax for the ensuing year. The bonded debt of the State is $9,665,660. If from this we deduct the sum of $3,074,566.09, now in the sinking fund and available for the extinguishment of this debt, the net bonded obligation is but $6,591,093.91. It will be necessary at the present session to provide for the payment of $55,000 Adirondack and $200,000 of Public Defense Bonds which will become due during the next fiscal year.

The total receipts into the State Treasury from indirect revenues were $22,341,802.97 and from all other sources $1,967,695.73, a total of $24,309,498.70. The total payments were $24,346,723.27, showing a deficiency in receipts of but $37,224.57. The actual cash balance on October 1, 1903, was $10,192,629.34. If from this we deduct all appropriations in force on September 30, 1903, the free balance for the current fiscal year, which may be classed as surplus, was on October 1, 1903, $8,562,277.85, a sum sufficient to guard against unforeseen contingencies or lessened receipts from sources which are liable to fluctuations.

CANAL IMPROVEMENTS.

The adoption of the referendum for the enlargement of the canal system of the State brings to us responsibilities which call for sound judgment and conservative treatment. The policy of the State having been determined, neither factious nor personal opposition should hinder its fulfillment. Unnecessary delay is as undesirable as undue haste. A business-like treatment of every detail is demanded. Verification of the engineer's estimates of the most important and difficult portions of the work by actual bids should be obtained at once. I am advised that the surveys already made will permit an early submission to bidders of plans and specifications for some of the most costly sections. The Expert Board provided for in the act will be soon appointed by me. I hope to take such action at this initial period of the work as will take the whole project out of political surroundings.

Merit should and will be the sole test in the selection of its individual members. That the Board may be unhampered in its work it is desirable that the terms of office of its members should be coincident with the period of construction, and that removals should be for cause only upon charges duly sustained. Thus safeguarded and working under the restrictions imposed by the statute and in harmony with the State's officials, this Board can be relied upon to properly protect the State's interests. The change in route, the abandonment of the present canal in part, the purchase of other property, should receive careful attention. To this end we should not alone purchase the land necessary for the canal itself but we should also secure such releases as will minimize the claims which may arise as the result of its operation. A Board of Appraisers of say three members should be authorized to effect settlements with owners and thus bring down to actual figures and certainty that which at present is at the best but mere conjecture. Every detail having been provided for, and the accuracy of the estimated cost of the work determined, there will then come the positive knowledge that either the canal can be completed within the sum authorized, or that a necessity exists for a greater expenditure. All of these precautions will not delay, but will rather hasten the building of the canal and will also serve to allay the fears of all and inspire confidence in the administration of the work. If, as I am firmly convinced, no mistakes have been made, then the most important subject left for the consideration of the Legislature is that of providing ways and means for the raising of the money to be expended. While the referendum provides for a yearly direct tax and the payment of the debt in eighteen years, I am sure that the general expectation is that some other method may be devised. To return either to a direct tax or to seriously disturb existing tax laws is far from desirable. New York, with its vast interests and wealth, has resources which would seem to make it almost a profligate use of funds to burden the people with unnecessary interest charges. The present law proposes to pay in eighteen years for interest $54,540,000. If the period be extended to fifty years the expenditure for the same purpose would be $151,500,000. The principal sum in both cases is in addition to be provided for. What is it we seek to escape and what benefits do we derive from this absolute waste of public moneys? New York has a valuation of nearly six billions of dollars. One hundred and one millions of dollars is probably one of the greatest sums ever appropriated for a single public work, and yet if in the wisdom of the Legislature it should be all levied and collected in a single year, the tax would be but $17.12 per thousand of valuation. While this sum is large for State purposes, yet there are but few municipalities in our commonwealth that can boast of so favorable a local tax rate. If the expenditure were spread over ten years, the probable period of construction, the yearly tax would be but $1.71 per thousand. Therefore in order to escape, or rather to put off for eighteen years the extinguishment of the debt, the intention is to burden ourselves with interest charges equal to fifty-four per cent. of the principal. True, with mathematical accuracy the whole proposition is worked out in annual payments, yet the result will be practically as I have outlined. If we could pay this debt in twenty annual installments without interest, our obligation would call for $5,550,000 annually, or but $2,470,000 in addition to the proposed yearly interest charges. This could be done if the State's revenues from indirect sources were large enough, but unfortunately our present revenues are not sufficient for this purpose. If, as I have indicated in prior messages, however, advantage is taken of opportunities to correct some very manifest inequalities in our tax laws, the increased receipts which would result would then in twenty years provide for the total expenditure. But how can this be accomplished, it may be asked? If the State had additional revenues of $5,500,000 annually it could furnish probably all of the money that might be required for the first five years without recourse to the sale of bonds or levies upon the localities. During the last five years of the work, there will be of course a necessity for such a sum as may remain unpaid, or an aggregate of about $75,000,000. The payment of interest if the bonds were issued under the referendum plan would take nearly two-thirds of this new revenue if it were to be paid annually, and therefore no saving would result. It is, therefore, necessary that the interest should be deferred, that is, the bonds to be issued should be of such a character that the principal and interest might be paid at maturity. Such bonds, however, might not prove attractive to investors and it would be necessary therefore to have recourse to the counties in order to perfect and make successful the plan I have in mind for the best method of financing this public improvement. The deferment of payment of interest should not alone be our object. No large sum of money should be on hand until the necessity for its use arises. Assuming, therefore, that the localities will be called upon to bear this burden, the proper financing of this loan would be by the issuance of bonds upon which there would be the smallest possible interest charges. Assuming that new revenues will be provided and that the period of construction will be ten years, $25,000,000 could be paid by the State by the end of five years without levies upon the counties. If levies were then made for the remaining five years of ten millions of dollars annually upon the counties in proportion to their assessed valuation, this with the continuance of the State's contribution of five millions of dollars annually would provide the whole sum that is necessary for the completion of the work. Bonds could be then issued which would represent the aggregate of principal and interest and could be given to the localities in return for their levies, provision being made for their retirement after the State's primary payments for ten consecutive years had been completed. The period for which these bonds can be issued is but eighteen years because of the constitutional limitation. There is no reason why they cannot be paid off sooner however, and a great saving in interest charges would be thus effected and there would then be no necessity for creating a sinking fund if the bonds were retired annually as the State had the ability to do it. The bonds could be issued in annual series of $5,000,000 each, five years after the commencement of work and completed in twelve years, which would make the life of the last series of bonds seventeen years. The first series would be paid in six years from the first contribution from the counties, the second in seven years, and so on to the final payment. The bonds which I propose should be issued would be first, for the first levy of $10,000,000 upon which there should be computed six years interest at three per cent. upon $5,000,000, and seven years interest upon $5,000,000. The second levy of $10,000,000 would be covered also by two series of bonds of $5,000,000 each upon which seven and eight years interest would be computed respectively. This form of bond issue would be continued until the final levy, and $50,500,000 had been provided for in twelve annual installments. The total amount of principal and interest which would be thus required would be $62,750,000, which would require a yearly annual payment for twelve years of $5,230,000. These bonds then could be placed with the counties in proportion to their contributions or levies at their then present worth. This I am led to believe would not be inharmonious with existing law which provides that they shall not be sold for less than par, as the face value of the bond would be par and accumulated interest for the period which it was to run. The delivery of these bonds to the counties would be a guarantee that finally the State would reimburse every locality for such levy as might be made annually for the necessary funds with which to build the canal. They could be used by the counties as a sinking fund for the retirement of their own bonds which might be issued if it is so desired. The latter bonds being county bonds, would not interfere with the borrowing capacity of any municipality. Under this method the only burden which would be placed upon the counties would be the interest charge upon their own bonds, which would be recouped to them finally, so that their own bonds could be retired and there would be a constant decrease in the amount necessary for interest charges after the maturity of the first series of bonds. Therefore the counties would suffer no loss. The necessity for a direct tax would not exist and the whole cost would be borne by the State from its indirect revenues. To accomplish this, a constitutional amendment which would permit the payment of bonded indebtedness from indirect revenues would be required. It might be necessary to provide also for a constitutional amendment which would permit the loaning of monies to the State by the counties, although I am convinced that if the contributions of the localities are treated as tax levies, such a necessity would not arise. But it would be better perhaps to provide for this by amendment to the Constitution. Other constitutional objections might be raised, but ample time can be taken without in any way interfering with the progress of the work, and such amendments as are considered necessary could be presented to this Legislature and be readopted by the next Legislature, and then submitted to the electorate of the State in 1905. Assuming that the total expenditure will be $101,000,000, the whole cost will be as follows:

State's proportion in ten years.....	$50,500,000 00
Counties' proportion to be repaid.....	50,500,000 00
Interest to be repaid to the counties.....	12,750,000 00
	<hr/>
Total	$113,750,000 00

Under the present law the payment, principal and interest, would be $155,540,000, or $41,790,000 more than by the plan suggested. All that is necessary to accomplish this are new revenues to the amount of $5,500,000 annually, thus saving to the people of the State this great sum of money. To provide for the present, ten millions of dollars of bonds could be issued for two or three years to meet immediate needs and then be retired.

As $101,000,000 are authorized and but $62,750,000 for this purpose are required, this temporary use of $10,000,000 of bonds would not affect the plan I have outlined. In order that the practicable working out of these results may be shown, I have applied them to the Greater City of New York, Erie, Dutchess and Seneca counties, on the 1903 valuation, showing first their contributions and the value of bonds with accumulated interest received:

	Payment.	Bonds.
New York	$33,397,275 00	$41,719,337 50
Erie	2,624,485 00	3,261,117 50
Dutchess	378,245 00	469,997 50
Seneca	123,222 00	153,110 00
	<hr/> <hr/>	<hr/> <hr/>

While under the present law the contributions would be as follows, for principal and interest:

New York City.....	$103,410,769 00
Erie	8,083,413 80
Dutchess	1,164,994 60
Seneca	379,517 60
	<hr/> <hr/>

In this latter computation the working of the sinking fund is disregarded, because the loss upon yearly payments would counterbalance the benefits which would accrue. To accomplish this saving is it not better to disregard conditions which, while apparently securing local benefits, are in reality more than overbalanced by payments which will be necessary under a direct tax system for the purpose of rebuilding the canals. There may be a suggestion that indirect taxation will in effect be a tax upon the localities, but the revenues should be derived mainly from sources which do not at present form any considerable part of the local revenues.

PUBLIC EDUCATION.

In the administration of our school system two authorities are in control. The one, the Board of Regents, has for its particular function the charge of higher education, while the so-called primary or common school education was placed by statute under the Superintendent of Public Instruction. From time to time friction has arisen, with results which have been in no way beneficial to the cause of education. Dual inspection and greater expense have resulted with no compensating benefits. A well defined line between the two departments would in a large measure remove these unhappy conditions. Both are necessary. Neither should trespass upon the rights of the other. In our magnificent school system each has its proper place and consequently no effort at the displacement of either should receive serious consideration. Primary education should be understood to include all schools where academic education is not a part of the curriculum. Academic education, on the other hand, should be under prescribed courses with not less than a three years term. With this line of demarcation the duties of the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the Regents could be determined and fixed by statute. Who has the most or the least is not worthy of consideration, but rather that both should perform their work equally for the advancement of education. Mere disbursements of public moneys do not mean efficiency. What is more necessary are plans formulated by competent educators. If, therefore, all so-called academic departments were placed under the charge of the Regents, and every grade of school up to the academic under the Superintendent of Public Instruction, better results would be produced.

A joint committee appointed at the last session of the Legislature has this subject under consideration, and it is to be hoped that from their report and these suggestions, needed legislation may result. In order to accomplish and carry out such changes as I have suggested, chapter 556 of the Laws of 1894 should be so amended as to provide for a three-year academic course in order to secure State aid as an academic department. Second: The Superintendent of Public Instruction should be relieved of his power over academic schools, as to the approval of the course pursued, by amendment to chapter 1031 of the Laws of 1895.

I make these suggestions with no discourtesy to the committee investigating these departments, but with the hope that there may come much needed legislation, which will result in the elimination of unnecessary strife and a consequent advancement in our public schools and higher education.

CORNELL SCHOOL OF FORESTRY.

By chapter 122 of the Laws of 1898 the State purchased townships 23 and 26 in the county of Franklin, and Cornell University thereupon took title and undertook practical demonstration and instruction in the School of Forestry. Its operations had for their object the substitution for so-called worthless timber valuable growths, but this has resulted in the practical destruction of all trees upon the lands where the experiment was in progress. No compensating benefits seem possible to the present generation. The preservation of the forests is primarily for the protection of the water supply, and this is not possible through the denudation of the lands. Therefore this school failed of its object, as understood by its founders, a failure which was not due however to the work of the University, which followed out the letter and spirit of the law. The report of the committee of the Assembly at the last session of the Legislature, and the knowledge of the disapproval of many of our citizens, led me to veto the item for its support in the appropriation bill of 1903. The question therefore is before you, and to the Legislature we must accordingly look for such action as will properly protect all interests. Cornell University undertook this work at the request of the State, and as such was its agent. In so doing it has made contracts for which it is primarily responsible, but which responsibility as the agent of the commonwealth it should not be called upon to assume. Neither should the school it founded be discontinued, because with the lapse of years a proper understanding of scientific forestry will become more and more a necessity. This is particularly true of farm forestry, which will form an important part in the future of agriculture within the State. That our people do not desire, however, that public lands shall be denuded is beyond question. It would seem therefore desirable that immediate legislation be had to recover to the State this property, of which there is about 30,000 acres, and for the payment into the Treasury of the unexpended portion of the capital fund advanced by the State. Permission should be given to clear up and remove all cut timber and wood by the university, so that the danger of fire may be lessened. The contracts made between Cornell and the Brooklyn Cooperage Company might be left with the Executive for adjustment, and failing in this either to the Court of Claims, if the State is to be the party defendant, or to the Supreme Court if Cornell should be the responsible defendant. In neither case, however, should any burden be placed upon the university.

FOREST PRESERVE.

The purchase of land in the Adirondacks and Catskills by the State was discontinued two years ago, because of the belief that some comprehensive plan should be formulated for the continued acquirement of property and for avoiding the constant increased price of land which followed each appropriation. A committee appointed in accordance with the recommendation made in my last annual message has investigated this subject and will doubtless report some method of arriving at the desired results. It would seem to me that in every private camp, since it is the object of the State to protect the water supply, that at least the timber rights should be secured either through purchase or condemnation, and that all other lands should be acquired in full. There are in private preserves 705,914 acres, and in other holdings 1,356,816 acres. Much of this land has been lumbered over. Much has been burned and destroyed. In both cases replanting and protection should begin at once. The numerous forest fires, causing great destruction, call for greater vigilance upon the part of the State. Restrictive laws and additional means for properly patrolling those points where danger exists should be provided. The many disputes, with consequent litigation as to ownership, it seems to me call for a comprehensive plan to prevent the acquirement of lands by people who rely upon vague titles for possession. It is of the greatest importance that the State should eventually own every acre of land within the Preserve. Some action therefore should be immediately taken to acquire quasi possession at least and thus prevent speculation in that which it is the policy of the State to own. The recent fires have left dangerous debris which should be removed.

To sell it is beyond the power of the State, but to clear up burned over tracts is necessary for replanting. If a Constitutional amendment is required to accomplish this end, it should be undertaken at once.

FOREST PRESERVE ASSESSMENTS.

For the purpose of aiding the townships of which the Forest Preserve forms a part, the State has generously consented to an assessment of its land for all tax purposes. This is an exception to the general rule in regard to State property, except such as is permitted to be assessed for local purposes by special acts of the Legislature. There seems to be, however, no statute which adequately protects the State's interests in this respect. I would suggest an amendment to the law to govern this particular class of State property which would provide in effect that the assessment upon such property should be made conjointly with the State Board of Tax Commissioners. The State owns in many instances from sixty-five to eighty per cent. of the townships, and it is proper that before large increases in valuation which have followed recent assessments are confirmed, some method should be devised by the Legislature to protect the State's interests and avoid large bonded debts which are to be liquidated almost entirely by the State. It would seem no more than proper that the State's consent, through the Comptroller, should be first obtained before a bonded debt could be authorized. It is a peculiar situation which exists and it requires different treatment than in almost any other locality in the State.

CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS.

The more modern methods of treatment of insanity, the consequent increase in requirements have brought us to an anomalous condition. Notwithstanding the additional space in hospitals, we apparently have not added to the dormitory capacity of our institutions. This to the uninformed seems like overcrowding and unwise economies. During the past three years appropriations amounting to $3,170,000 have been made to meet these growing demands. In 1898 the capacity was rated at 20,656 and in 1901 it was reduced to 18,678. Thus it would appear that the State's ability to properly care for its insane population was lessened notwithstanding that large sums had been expended to increase the dormitory facilities. During the past three years provision has been made for 5,147 new beds, so that if the old measurement of capacity of 1898 were in force we should have, when all changes are made, facilities for a population of 25,403. The present population is 24,187, with a rating in capacity of 23,825. From this statement it will be readily seen that under modern methods more cubic space per capita is allowed, with resultant advantage. In every direction that which is for the benefit of the patient has been furnished. The total cost of maintenance for the year was $4,104,689.23. Better discipline prevails among the employees and the increased pay for the nurses has produced results which more than justify the additional expenditures involved. Up to the present therefore there seems to be no just cause for complaint. New York, like every other seaboard commonwealth, is experiencing the baneful results which come to it because of the ease with which degenerates and incompetents from other lands can be sent here. We are obliged to rely for protection upon the inspections which the Federal Government makes. It would seem to be the part of wisdom to protect ourselves, and to that end I should favor legislation for State inspection by a board of competent physicians. Notwithstanding that we have now almost provided for our present population, with the expiration of the lease at Flatbush, with our average annual increase by October, 1905, we shall again have a deficiency of nearly 3,500 beds. Immediate steps are necessary to provide for this increase. The separation of the chronic from the acute insane seems in every way to be dictated by wisdom and experience. Pavilions for the acute insane at New York, Brooklyn and other State hospitals, together with the necessary appropriation for the new building in northern New York, will call for an expenditure of $2,175,000. This sum probably will be all that will be required for the next three years. It may be well to state here that if the policy of providing emergency hospitals be adopted that the per capita cost will be nearly $1,000, so that if legislation for this purpose is had a change in existing law will be required, as the per capita authorized is now but $450. While the latter sum is all that is necessary for chronic wards, the former, which will require costly apparatus and appliances, is not too great if the results promised are secured.

There is urgent necessity for an increase in the capacity of the Custodial Asylum for Feeble-Minded at Rome, to care for the rapidly increasing population of this class of State wards. Provision should be made at the present session of the Legislature for additional buildings in order that the transfer from county to State care of idiots and degenerates may be speedily made.

HOME FOR JUVENILE DELINQUENTS, RANDALL'S ISLAND.

The complaints made as to the management of the Home for Juvenile Delinquents has brought about two investigations, one by the management and one by the State Board of Charities. Both investigations have shown mismanagement, and both demonstrate the need of immediate action. Peculiar in its character, with but limited power exercised by the State, it seems to me that the time has arrived for a change and for the assumption of this work by the State. While it is true that the Fiscal Superintendent has power over expenditures so far as the approval of estimates is concerned, the management of this asylum is entirely under the control of a private corporation. With a board made up of busy men, it is largely in the power of its superintendent to dictate its policies. Although its support comes almost entirely from the State, its officers are without the pale of the civil service rules which govern every other State institution and its management is self perpetuating. Situated upon land which, in the event of removal or discontinuance of the asylum, must revert to the city, the State is annually called upon to contribute for betterments. Its close proximity to the greater city does not permit that healthy outdoor life which would be possible in a rural community; besides, the frequent visitations by many who should be kept away during the period which these youths are confined, is not always conducive to reformation. Experience at Rochester has demonstrated the wisdom of many of these conclusions, and to escape these evils the State has recently consummated the purchase of a large tract of ground for the removal of the Rochester Industrial School. Expense should not be a matter of serious consideration if results can be secured which make possible more complete reformation. The prevention of crime is more desirable than its punishment. Punishment may not be necessary if the playgrounds of the tenement population of our great cities are made attractive. Parks are as desirable as law, and sunshine brings out the best of man's nature. Therefore if the State should replace the asylum at Randalls Island with a similar State institution at some nearby point in an adjacent county, it would be of advantage both to its inmates and to those who could thereafter make use of the grounds now occupied by it for recreation. The separation of sexes in the reformatories is very desirable. Ample space is now available at Hudson and Bedford for this purpose if wisdom is exercised in separating old offenders from younger incorrigibles. This subject is recommended to your earnest consideration, in the hope that proper legislation may follow. These conditions of which complaint is made, it is fair to say, are in no way chargeable to the benevolent people who are in control of Randalls Island, but are due rather to antiquated methods which have resulted from the inexperience of the past.

AMENDMENTS TO THE ELECTION LAW.

The necessity for a still further amendment of the law controlling the primary and the general and local elections in the State has been demonstrated by recent experiences. Good government depends largely upon the freedom with which the franchise can be exercised in the nominating caucuses of parties. Interference by those who are not members of a party may predetermine nominations that are so objectionable that they do not meet with party support. In order therefore that the freest and fairest methods may prevail, it is necessary that that which is lacking in the present so-called Primary Law should be supplied at this session of the Legislature.

At the session of 1903 an amendment to the Primary Law was made which provided in effect that party declarations should be made only on the day of registration for general elections. This was intended to prevent transfers and so-called padding of enrollment lists. During the past year the Supreme Court of the First Department decided there was no power vested in the court to remove from the enrollment lists non-residents or illegal voters. While the right of challenge obtains, yet this method of reaching those who were not entitled to vote was not thought to be sufficient to properly guard the interests of those who were honestly entitled to participate in primaries. So far as the registry lists for all general, special and local elections are concerned, the right of review rests in the courts, and they may order stricken from the rolls the names of non-residents and others whose names remaining upon the list might prove a temptation for illegal voting. The same rule should apply to primary elections, and the deficiencies which exist in the present law should be supplied by amendment to the general law.

In the larger cities it has been deemed wise in order to more clearly fix methods for the recognition of voters that certain questions should be put to the voter upon presenting himself to the Board of Registry, the object being to provide absolute identification as well as to establish his right to participate in the election at which he seeks to vote. Among these questions is one which seeks to ascertain the last place of voting. While the question is put "Where did you last vote?", there is lacking the general query which this question was undoubtedly intended to form a part of, "Where and when did you last vote?" A truthful answer to this question and an insistence upon correct answers to all other queries would determine whether or not the voter was a resident within the meaning of the law as a qualified elector and as such was entitled to exercise the right of franchise. I would suggest that the law be so amended as to include this additional query, thus protecting the ballot against the possibility of fraud in this direction.

I again direct your attention to the increasing number of defective ballots cast at elections throughout the State, and the virtual disenfranchisement of many voters which thereby results. In the hands of dishonest people technicalities often are taken advantage of to destroy ballots. Some action should be taken at the present session to properly guard and to specify the requirements for a fair counting of the votes cast at elections.

STATE PRISONS.

For humanitarian reasons ample provision should be made at once for remodeling the present State prisons. That source of disease, the foul, damp and unhealthy cell should be relegated to the past. The object of punishment should be not only a deterrent one, but should aim also to reform and to send the inmates of our prisons out into the world competent to take up useful work and to become useful members of society. So many inequalities and so much injustice results under our present statutes, that it would seem desirable that a commission, to be appointed either by the Legislature or the Executive, should take up this work and give to it careful consideration, with the end in view of making the Penal Code and prison administration more practical than they are to-day. As an instance of these inequalities, it may be stated that a young man over eighteen years of age convicted of a felony may be sent to a reformatory, but if convicted of a misdemeanor he must be sent to prison for a definite term. If the object is punishment alone, then the law is right. If, however, it is also reformation, because probation or suspension of sentence is not always wise, then we are committing a wrong against society. The Parole Board and Children's Court, which followed a suggestion made by me, have produced beneficial results. It is quite important therefore that the beneficent influences which our charitable people are exerting in this direction should also receive encouragement from the Legislature.

If the present law which provides for electrocution is to remain in force, and there seems to be no immediate possibility of its modification, then the State should erect a central prison for condemned prisoners. This would permit a certain amount of freedom which the State owes in the way of exercise and which it is impossible to give under existing conditions. It would be well for you to give this branch of prison administration careful consideration. The Prison Department is the only department which is administered under the old system in requiring specific appropriations for a portion of each year. In other words, this department is always six months behind in its expenditures, and relies upon the Supply Bill to meet the deficiencies which thus occur. I recommended last year that an additional appropriation should be allowed and that the item which is usually placed in the Supply Bill, be omitted. This bill passed the Assembly but failed of passage in the Senate, which fact was not discovered until after the adjournment of the Legislature. It left the Prison Department practically without funds for nearly six months. Whatever debt has been incurred should be paid and sufficient appropriation made to carry the Prison Department up to the beginning of the next fiscal year, and thereafter the appropriations for this department should be made the same as for all others in the Annual Appropriation Bill, in sufficient amount to carry it along a full year.

LABOR DEPARTMENT.

The Labor Department has been administered in a judicious manner. The authority and power vested in the Department have been exerted whenever possible towards effecting settlement of strikes and lockouts. I understand that numerous applications will be made to the present Legislature for amendments to existing statutes affecting labor. There is too often a misunderstanding of the relations which should exist between the employer and his employee and frequently laws are enacted which are burdensome and oppressive to one or both of these great interests. In the protection of both the commonwealth is equally interested. Care should be exercised therefore by your committees and by the Legislature in the enactment of new statutes. While it is your duty to protect equally both labor and capital, neither should seek nor be afforded advantages which are detrimental to the interests of the other. The right of every man to sell his labor to the best advantage is self evident and axiomatic. The numerous disputes which have arisen have resulted in judicial interpretation of the statutes and the Constitution of the State from time to time, interpretations which have tended to define the relations which should exist between these interests. In the main these judicial findings have been beneficial and therefore it should not be the object of the Legislature to attempt to nullify them by amendments to the present laws. Some statutes, which have been passed with good intentions, are a positive hindrance to the enjoyment of those rights which are inherent under our form of government. The employers should be protected as well as the employees. While the Legislature should make ample provision for the protection of the workingman, it should not disregard the rights of the employer. The elimination of those conditions which produce strikes and lockouts is desirable but it is as much the duty of the State to protect individuals in the complete enjoyment of their rights as it is to protect aggregations of individuals combined for specific purposes. Stringent laws which will protect the employer against blackmailing designs are as important as the protection of the workingman in his rights. I believe the time has come when every sensible man recognizes the propriety of legislation which will accomplish these results.

STATE EMPLOYEES.

A committee of the Legislature has had under investigation the compensation of employees in the State service and the necessities for the services of those now in the State employ. While it is not my purpose to anticipate the report of this committee, or to interfere in any way with what is now a purely legislative function, I do desire to place myself on record as favoring such changes as are for the interest of the State in protecting it against such excessive salaries as have been the outgrowth more of favoritism than of necessity.

It is desirable therefore that such amendments as will make more effective the so-called Higgins Law should be enacted by the Legislature.

STATE PRINTING.

I desire to call your attention to a custom which prevails in some of the departments of issuing bulletins which are not provided for in the Appropriation Bill. The uncertainty as to the number of such publications and their cost makes the practice objectionable from every standpoint. While I do not desire to pass upon the necessity or the desirability of such publications, yet I do believe that we should insist upon these items being provided for in the annual Appropriation Bill to the end that we may know definitely and with certainty the cost of such printing.

Recent legislation has greatly reduced the State's printing expense, and I am informed that during the present year the amount will not exceed $250,000. Prior to recent legislation on this subject this expense had run up to between three hundred and four hundred thousand dollars a year. The publication of such bulletins as I have referred to above, without being specifically provided for in the Appropriation Bills, if the practice be continued, may reach amounts never contemplated. I would suggest, therefore, that in making up the annual Appropriation Bills these items of the various departments which issue bulletins should be provided for so that the Comptroller may have full knowledge as to the extent of the printing contract and that large deficiencies for printing expense may thus be avoided.

GOOD ROADS.

Four hundred and eighty-four miles of road have been improved by State aid since the enactment of chapter 115 of the Laws of 1898. The counties have already contributed their half of the expense for building six hundred and nineteen miles for which plans are now ready. Petitions have been presented for the construction of 3,250 miles. The total mileage of roads in the State is 74,097. In order to form a perfect system of highways through the State it is estimated that the improvement of not more than ten per cent. of the total mileage will be necessary. In other words, in order to secure a system of good roads throughout the State, the total ultimate mileage would be about 7,500 miles. The counties have provided for their half of the expense for 1,103 miles of improved roads while the State has contributed its proportion for only 484 miles. It is estimated that $2,801,000 will be required from the State to complete this 1,103 miles.

While it has taken a number of years for this system of road improvement to grow into popular favor, it will be seen that probably within the next six or eight years all necessary roads will be under construction or will have been completed, provided funds are available which will give a perfect system of highways throughout all portions of the State. This, with the State's contributions for the repair of roads in counties which have adopted the money system, ought to give to New York a magnificent system of highways. Some changes are necessary in the good roads laws in order to protect and repair these roadways. These necessities can be met by amendment of the existing statute. While it is not contemplated that the repairs to these roads shall be the State's duty, except in so far as provided under the so-called Plank Law, yet there should be supervision by the State in order to insure the maintenance of these improved roads. With this end in view it might be proper to provide for State supervision over State roads by giving to the State Engineer and Surveyor such jurisdiction as will always secure uniform plans for repairs in all counties in the State.

GRADE CROSSINGS.

With the improvement of the canals, with better roadways, and with greater facilities of all kinds for transportation, the resultant benefit should be of a satisfactory character. The approval of an item in the last Appropriation Bill for the change of grade crossings in the city of Schenectady brings up an important question for consideration by the Legislature. As is well known, heretofore almost all of these improvements, so far as the State has been concerned, have been restricted to the rural communities. The State has declined to aid in the construction of roadways within the boundaries of the cities. But it is the State's duty to protect the lives of its citizens, whether in the cities or rural communities. Under existing laws the State contributes twenty-five per cent., the locality twenty-five per cent. and the railroads fifty per cent. for removing crossings at grade. There have been, however, no appropriations for any single piece of work such as that approved by me for the removal of crossings at grade in the city of Schenectady. If the policy of the State is to continue along this line it would be well to define some maximum limit to which it should go, and the whole work thereafter should be under the control of the Railroad Commission, appropriations being made in accordance with their recommendations. It would be well also to prohibit by statute any future grade crossings in the State in the construction of railroads so that this expense may be guarded against in the future. It will certainly grow to alarming proportions otherwise, unless the localities have their interests in this direction sufficiently protected.

PERSONAL TAX ASSESSMENTS.

The personal assessments of the State, according to the equalized valuations of 1902, amount to $672,149,054. Of this amount $115,412,815 are not assessed locally for State purposes; so that the total amount of personal property assessed locally for all purposes is $556,736,239. It is well known that while the assessed valuation of real estate has grown very largely each decade, that the percentage of increase of personal assessments is very small. The total personal property standing upon the assessment rolls of Greater New York amounts to $526,400,139, or about 78 per cent. of the total for the State, while its percentage of the State's real estate assessment is but 66 per cent. It would appear from this that in Greater New York personal property is assessed to a greater degree than in almost any other county of the State. Much of this assessment in New York City is occasioned by taxation upon mortgages which should not exist and which is a positive burden to many and in frequent cases takes at least fifty per cent. of the income from such property. Power should be vested somewhere for such treatment of this class of personal property in its contribution to the expenses of government as would tend to minimize this unjust proportion of payment of taxes.

INVESTIGATION OF THE LAW'S DELAYS.

The commission appointed in pursuance to my recommendation to examine into the law's delays in the greater judicial departments of the State has steadfastly pursued its investigation since its appointment and will report to you its findings. I am convinced from knowledge that has been imparted to me and from suggestions that have been made, that if its recommendations are enacted into law, the result will tend to make more certain immediate consideration of litigated claims and bring about a betterment of conditions in the various courts of the State.

CORPORATION LAWS.

The corporation laws enacted in 1901 show gratifying results. Prior to the passage of these laws, for the year 1900 there were but 2,329 incorporations, with a total capitalization of $306,613,355; while for the year ending September 30, 1903, there were 3,828 incorporations, with a capitalization of $424,830,500. The number of companies increasing their capital stock during this year was 572, with a total increase of $261,834,150. These figures show that the recent laws are encouraging corporations to domicile within New York.

It is suggested that the Insurance Law be so amended as to provide that cooperative insurance companies' certificates be filed in the Insurance Department, instead of in the Secretary of State's office, as this class of companies is provided for by the Insurance Laws. It is also recommended that certificates of corporations, incorporated under the Insurance Law shall be filed with the Insurance Department alone. As the law stands to-day the certificates of incorporation of such companies are not filed with the Secretary of State, but subsequent certificates of such companies are required to be. The recommendation which I have made is to avoid a duplication in the filing of certificates.

It is also suggested that the Code of Civil Procedure be amended so as to protect the name of a corporation when it is proceeding to effect a change of name under section 2111 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

THE UNITED STATES LOAN DEPOSIT FUND.

In 1837 the United States Government distributed a certain portion of its surplus to the various States under a statute which provided for the loaning of such money to individuals. This fund is known as the United States Deposit Fund. Two Loan Commissioners are appointed in each county, whose duty it is to supervise the loaning of these monies. Under this law the State is obliged to preserve the integrity of the fund, so that if any loss occurs the State must make it good out of its own revenues, if there should not be enough interest derived from the fund available for this purpose. The result of the operation of this law has been that the interest upon it has averaged but two and two-tenths per cent., while other funds invested by the State Comptroller have an average of three and seventy-five hundredths per cent. Recent losses in various parts of the State have made it apparent that a more careful examination of property upon which loans are sought should be made before they are allowed, and that power should be lodged in some one competent head rather than distributed among loan commissioners all over the State.

I would suggest, therefore, the amendment of the existing statute so as to permit the loaning of this fund upon municipal and local bonds in order that the State may be more fully protected and a larger rate of interest secured. Of course it would not be desirable to disturb existing loans unless investigation should establish the fact that the margin between the loan and the value of the property is such as to make it imperative either that the amount should be reduced or additional security furnished. The Legislature in the year 1897 did make an amendment as suggested above, but objections were raised perhaps because of calling in of loans, thereby imposing certain hardships, and the law was repealed at the next session of the Legislature. There was, therefore, no opportunity afforded to thoroughly test the suggestion which I now again make for the handling of this money. The State Comptroller has taken this subject up in detail in his annual report, and I would respectfully direct your attention to the suggestions and recommendations which he makes, with which I am in full accord.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH.

The report of the State Commissioner of Health shows that nearly 25,000 cases of typhoid fever, with a mortality of 1,635 cases, occurred in the State during 1903. Similar epidemics have occurred in other States. Inasmuch as typhoid fever is very frequently caused by polluted supplies of potable water, it is now classed as a preventable disease. The general acceptance of this view resulted in the passage of chapter 468 of the Laws of 1903, entitled "An act to amend the Public Health Law relative to the discharge of sewage and other waste matter into the waters of the State."

The proper enforcement of the various provisions of this law is vested in the State Department of Health, and upon its wise and judicious enforcement will depend the lives and health of the people in a large degree.

A complete record of the sources of public water supplies, and the possible conditions which may produce epidemics of typhoid fever or other infectious diseases, should be secured by the Health Commissioner, and I recommend that an appropriation be granted by the Legislature for this purpose.

The bureau of vital statistics of the Department of Health is the custodian of all records of births, deaths and marriages which have occurred since the establishment of the State Board of Health in 1880.

Each one of this vast number of certificates (which is annually increased by about half a million) is a legal document, and may be required for judicially establishing property rights, the legitimacy of children, and other questions intimately affecting citizens of the State.

Enlarged quarters in the Capitol have been provided during the year for the preservation of these documents, which will suffice for many years to come. Additional facilities for filing and for permitting the inspection and preservation of these records should be provided.

HOME RULE.

The object of certain articles in the amended Constitution was to give to every locality in the State a measure of home rule which had been denied theretofore. The many interferences with the rights of cities it was thought had been sufficiently guarded against by placing within the hands of the respective mayors veto power over all acts affecting their cities. A protection in another direction was by giving to them the absolute control of all franchises in their localities without interference from the State. The State has placed within the municipalities the absolute power to prevent the disposal of valuable rights without securing adequate compensation therefor. Judicial findings have frequently set aside laws which interfered with these rights which for partisan or other purposes were sought to be secured by other than municipal control. The power which the State from time to time has thus placed with the cities would seem to be almost ample for absolute and positive autonomy. While the State has reserved to itself certain taxing powers, the object of which is of as much benefit to the cities as to the State, there seems to be yet misunderstanding and friction which it should be your duty to eliminate. Police power is often exercised for partisan effect. Laws of long standing on the statute books and which for political effect or other reasons have been left unrepealed, have been made agencies frequently for persecution and intolerable abuse of authority. A sentiment has grown up that the cities are not securing adequate return for their support in maintaining the State. The rural communities on the other hand resent the imputation that they are escaping their just proportion of the expense of the State's maintenance. These disagreements have been the outgrowth of a misunderstanding of the true conditions. Laws, however, were made to be enforced and no complaint can be made of an honest enforcement. It would seem natural and proper, inasmuch as it has been the policy of the State to afford home rule to municipalities, that in every respect majorities should control. That which the people of a locality demand within their own boundaries should be accorded without interference by other sections of the State, provided, however, that their action does not interfere with the rights of any or all of the people.

It might be proper for the Legislature to take up these various issues or matters of difference and attempt to formulate some plan whereby the matters complained of can be cured, and a more general fulfillment of the constitutional enactment arrived at. These questions of difference might be submitted to the people, and under our theory of government their conclusions and determinations would probably be satisfactory to all citizens of the State. At least there would come from such an investigation as I have suggested a realization of the duty and responsibility of each section of our commonwealth to every other. It would doubtless result in the correction of many things which are now a constant source of friction, misunderstanding and complaint.

SPECIAL LAWS.

The Legislature annually passes many bills under the guise of general acts which in effect are purely local in their character. It is not always possible to entirely eliminate this class of legislation. In prior messages I have directed the attention of the Legislature to this subject and have requested the framing of bills which would enable localities to take advantage of general statutes rather than special acts. This is particularly true of measures having to do with bond issues, the legalizing of the acts of notaries, amendments to village and city charters, and permission to go to the Court of Claims. It would seem that general statutes ought to be provided whereby some authority would be empowered to act upon these matters without the necessity of recourse to the Legislature. These statutes which are intended apparently for specific cases sometimes have very serious general effects. Legislation which had for its object the simplification and codification of our laws, would be of incalculable benefit to every citizen of the State. I commend these subjects to your thoughtful and careful consideration.

AGRICULTURE.

It has been the policy of the State to secure and disseminate such information as might be of benefit to the farming interests of the State. Laws have been enacted and rigidly enforced for the protection of food supplies against adulteration, with the object of guarding the health of the people and of securing to the farming interests such advantages as they are entitled to. Competition with the richer lands of other States makes scientific farming to-day more necessary than ever before. A thorough understanding of our resources and the necessities of our cities is important, because it will make the farming industry more profitable and consequently of greater benefit to the commonwealth. We have now two institutions in the State which devote attention to agricultural interests, one working along on experimental scientific lines, and the other teaching the science of farming. Other commonwealths have contributed largely in support of agricultural education, and it is important that we should also make adequate provision for this necessary instruction. There have been many applications from the agricultural interests for such recognition. Without making any specific recommendations as to the line which you should follow, I do desire to impress upon you the necessity for complying with these demands, which I believe to be reasonable and in the interest of New York. The Attorney-General will call your attention to the inconsistencies of some parts of the so-called Vinegar and other laws which are administered by the Agricultural Department. Numerous mistrials and verdicts against the State have resulted from attempts to enforce them. If they are to be enforced they should be reenacted upon lines which will avoid the constitutional objections which have been raised successfully against prosecutions under them. I am in full accord with the recommendations which he will make to you.

STATE CENSUS.

By the terms of the Constitution, Article 3, paragraph 4, an enumeration of the inhabitants of the State is to be taken under the direction of the Secretary of State in the months of May and June, 1905. In order that all of the preliminaries may be provided for it is necessary that this Legislature should make an appropriation at the present session for this purpose.

REPORTS OF DEPARTMENTS.

The reports of the various Departments which will be submitted to you all show results which are satisfactory. They are commended to your careful consideration because a synopsis of their contents in a communication of this character would fail to do justice to them. So far as possible the same fair treatment of all Departments of the State, the same conservative action upon the part of the Legislature in dealing with them should prevail as has been our policy for so many years, bearing in mind always the pledges we have made to the people. Your action should be determined by the necessities, the benefits to be derived, and the maintenance of a government that shall in every way be responsive to the wishes of the people.

ALBANY
OLIVER A. QUAYLE
STATE LEGISLATIVE PRINTER
1904

STATE OF NEW YORK.

No. 4.

IN ASSEMBLY,

JANUARY 18, 1904.

Annual Report of the Comptroller.

STATE OF NEW YORK:

COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,

ALBANY, N. Y., January 18, 1904.

To the Speaker of the Assembly:

Sir—I have the honor to transmit to the Legislature the annual report of the Comptroller, exhibiting the financial transactions and the condition of the finances of the State, for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1903.

Respectfully,

OTTO KELSEY,

Comptroller.

REPORT

COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,

ALBANY, N. Y., December 31, 1903.

To the Legislature:

As required by statute I submit the report of the Comptroller for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1903.

The period covered was under the administration of the Honorable Nathan L. Miller, my immediate predecessor, who resigned the office to accept an appointment to a vacancy in the position of Justice of the Supreme Court for the sixth judicial district, with opportunities for useful public service for which his character, ability and professional acquirements eminently qualify and commend him.

A summary of the business of the department appears in the following statements:

CONDITION OF THE TREASURY.

The cash balance in the Treasury of all the funds on the 30th of September, 1903, was $10,192,629.34, distributed as follows:

General Fund	$8,507,738 15
Free School Fund	507,007 24
Canal Fund, including Canal Debt Sinking Fund.	898,316 34
Trust Funds, including Forest Preserve Fund....	279,567 61
	$10,192,629 34

The following shows the transactions of the State Treasury during the year:

The balance in the Treasury to the credit of all funds of the State on October 1, 1902, was	$10,229,853 91
The receipts from all sources, including transfers from the several funds, during the fiscal year ending September 30, 1903, were. $32,038,656 08
Deduct transfers made in the adjustment of accounts between the several funds	7,729,157 38
	<hr/>
Actual receipts into the Treasury	24,309,498 70
	$34,539,352 61
The payments for all purposes, including transfers to the several funds, during the year amounted to	$32,075,880 65
Deduct transfers made in the adjustment of accounts between the several funds	7,729,157 38
	<hr/>
Actual payments from the Treasury	24,346,723 27
	<hr/>
Balance in the Treasury to the credit of all funds, September 30, 1903	$10,192,629 34
	<hr/> <hr/>

SURPLUS.

The following statement shows the surplus for the past fiscal year, assuming all valid appropriations made by the Legislature of 1902 to have been liquidated and all collections made:

Payments on appropriations of 1903, made prior to September 30, 1903 :

General Fund	$1,655,774 96
Free School Fund.....	16,994 69
Canal Fund	359,962 69
Add transfer from General Fund revenue, to make good deficiencies in the revenue of various trust funds, as provided in the Finance Law.....	41,805 50
Add balance due from county treasurers on account of State tax of 1902.....	1,996 75
Add cash on hand September 30, 1903, as shown above	10,192,629 34
	$12,269,163 93

Deduct balances of appropriations made prior to 1903 and available September 30, 1903 :

General Fund.....	$3,049,324 52
Free School Fund.....	6,091 56
Canal Fund	238,485 78
Amount belonging to Canal
Debt Sinking Fund.....	133,416 61
Amount belonging to trust funds	279,567 61
	<hr/>
	3,706,886 08
	<hr/>
Actual surplus September 30, 1903.....	$8,562,277 85

This amount exceeds the estimate made in last year's report of the surplus by the sum of $6,492,506.32, and is principally accounted for by the increase in receipts over estimates from corporation and transfer taxes of $1,835,545.59, and from the change in the law increasing the amount to be paid the State on account of the liquor tax of $4,590,147.90.

STATE DEBT.

The debt of the State, on September 30, 1903, was $9,665,660, of which $565,000 is the amount outstanding for the purchase of lands for the Adirondack Park, $600,000 is the amount outstanding of the National Guard public defense bonds, and $8,500,660 is the amount of the canal debt. The sinking fund created by the annual 13.100 of a mill tax, provided by chapter 79 of the Laws of 1895, amounted on the 30th day of September, 1903, to $3,074,566.09, which, in effect, reduces the amount of the canal debt to the sum of $5,426,093.91 still unprovided for. The debt maturing during the next fiscal year consists of $55,000 of Adirondack Park bonds, issued pursuant to chapter 561 of the Laws of 1895, maturing January 30, and $200,000 of National Guard public defense bonds, issued pursuant to chapter 672 of the Laws of 1898, $100,000 of which matures on the first days of November and May, respectively, and for the payment of which provision must be made by the Legislature. For a detailed statement of the debt of the State, reference is made to page 32 of this report.

RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES FOR THE YEAR ENDING SEPTEMBER 30, 1903.

The following statement shows the receipts and expenditures during the fiscal year, giving the principal sources of revenue and purpose of expenditure, omitting $7,729,157.38, amount of transfers in the adjustment of accounts between the several funds:

ESTIMATED RECEIPTS AND PAYMENTS FOR THE YEAR BEGINNING OCTOBER 1, 1903.

The estimated receipts and payments for the fiscal year beginning October 1, 1903, a detailed statement of which will be found in the appendix to the report, are as follows:

Receipts.

Estimated revenue.....	$22,200,331 75
Add cash on hand September 30, 1903, except Trust Funds and Canal Debt Sinking Fund.....	9,779,645 12
	<hr/>	$31,979,976 87

Payments.

Estimated payments based on appropriations in force October 1, 1903:

General Fund	$18,769,566 55
Free School Fund.....	4,514,988 65
Canal Fund	1,564,562 09
	<hr/>	24,849,117 29
Estimated surplus September 30, 1904.....	$7,130,859 58
	<hr/>	<hr/>

The estimate of receipts is based principally upon the amount received during the last fiscal year. At the date of this report, however, the moneys received would indicate a considerable increase over last year, but as refunds and credits to be allowed under decisions of the courts will probably exceed similar deductions for 1903, while the enormous shrinkage in security values will largely decrease the collection of corporation taxes, it is considered prudent to not overstate the estimated surplus.

RECEIPTS FROM INDIRECT SOURCES.

The following statement shows the aggregate receipts from indirect sources from 1890 to 1903, both inclusive, the details of which will be found in the appendix of this report:

Fiscal year ending September 30:

1890	$3,237,575 31
1891	5,593,968 69

1894	4,817,250 80
1895	5,411,654 50
1896	9,262,884 89
1897	9,204,395 44
1898	9,749,688 52
1899	10,463,265 71
1900	13,226,849 80
1901	15,611,498 62
1902	16,051,353 90
1903	22,341,802 97

TRUST FUNDS.

The capital of the several trust funds belonging to the State in cash and securities at the close of the fiscal year ending September 30, 1903, was as follows. CORPORATION TAX BUREAU.

The indirect revenues from the taxation of corporations under article 9 of the General Tax Law during the past fiscal year aggregated nearly seven millions of dollars, and would have reached this magnificent sum but for the fact that large sums were credited by order of the courts and in accordance with new judicial determinations and such credits accepted in lieu of direct payment. This same kind of acceptances must be made during the ensuing year for many thousands of dollars of taxes because of more recent decisions which modify and, apparently, reverse the opinions which have been accepted as final not only by the courts but by this Department and the legal fraternity of the State during the last twenty years.

The most important of these decisions was set forth in the case of the People ex rel the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company v. Morgan, 57 App. Div. 335, affirmed by the Court of Appeals without opinion, but lately the Court of Appeals in the case of the Mutual Trust Company of Westchester County against the Comptroller has applied the rule laid down in the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company case to the taxation of that class of corporations, and in such a way that it is possible for one of this class of companies to substantially escape taxation, not only for State purposes but for local purposes, for one year if organized at a certain time of the year.

These cases are called to your attention at this time that the Legislature, if it deems best, may amend the law. Under the former construction put upon the provisions of the Tax Law for the taxation of the capital stock of corporations, the tax was held to be for the future enjoyment of the franchise. Under these late decisions it is held to be for the past and in cases of new incorporations may be for a fractional part of a year, notwithstanding the fact that the statute provides that it shall be an annual tax, payable annually.

The application of this new rule will make nearly double the work of assessment and will also result in the escape from taxation of a large number of foreign corporations that may, just before the end of the taxing period, temporarily or otherwise, pass beyond the power of our laws, which, of course, cannot be extra territorial. This condition of affairs was impossible under the old construction.

As nearly as can be estimated, the credits which will have to be given during the ensuing year, under this construction, will amount to about one hundred thousand of dollars and the taxes lost will probably be at least another one hundred thousand of dollars. The old law as construed by the court certainly safeguarded the State's interests. The new construction apparently leaves an open door for escaping taxation.

During the year many cases have been presented in which the claim has been made that the capital stock is not employed but invested, and in one case it was held that the investment of the funds of a transportation company in real estate and in municipal bonds, although such investment was remunerative, did not constitute the "employment of capital stock" within the meaning of the statute, and was therefore exempt.

It would seem that some defining modification of the term "employed in doing business" could be made that would remove one of the questions which has arisen to plague the tax assessor. It must be confessed that the law for the assessment of corporations is difficult of administration at best and it would seem advisable to make the law and its administration as simple as possible and retain those features which wise legislation provided and which has at once produced not only large income for the State, but has made our State popular as the headquarters of domestic and foreign capital seeking organization.

Right here it is worthy of note that the legislation of 1901 and 1902, which made only so much of the capital of a corporation taxable as was within our borders and removed all unnecessary restriction from the officers and the directors of corporations, has not only increased our revenues from $2,624,508 in 1900 to $6,808,000 in 1903, but has also resulted in nearly one hundred per cent. increase in the number of corporations organized under the laws of this State, while in other states the revenues from corporate taxation and the number of companies organized has fallen off, or remained stationary.

One of the most important decisions which has ever been made with relation to the administration of this law, was that of the People ex rel. the United States Aluminum Printing Plate Company against the Comptroller, which in substance holds that the patents, copyrights, federal securities and other property of this character, included in the capital stock of both foreign and domestic companies, may be taken to measure the basis of the assessment. This decision has removed one of the most potent factors which has militated against the State of New York in favor of other states, and since the opinion was handed down a large and increasing number of companies, organized in other states with New York capital and doing business in our State, have been reorganized and are reorganizing under our laws.

Generally the law is in good form. All unnecessary changes should be avoided because it unsettles the law, the determination of the courts and the revenue of the State, and also constant change will deter organization under our statutes.

Although the past two years have seen the work of this bureau increased by at least forty per cent. and the revenue of the State increased more than four millions of dollars, it has been accomplished without material increase in office force and, apparently, with much better satisfaction and less friction than formerly.

The following table will show the comparative result for the past two years and the amount of revenue from the several sources.

The apparent decline in receipts from earnings of transportation companies is due to the acceptance of credits in lieu of taxes, and for the same reason there was a decline in taxes from the capital stock of the same class. These credits amounting to about $190,000.00 or $90,000.00 more than the apparent decrease.

STATE RACING TAX.

The receipts for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1903, from racing associations amounted to $180,818.05. This is the largest amount ever received in any one fiscal year from this class of associations, and undoubtedly the receipts on hand and subject to appropriation when the time for distribution is reached will be largely in excess of any amount heretofore held for such purpose.

Last year the Legislature reduced the direct appropriation for agricultural societies $40,000, and undoubtedly there will be funds enough on hand this year to make a larger distribution than was made last year, should the Legislature see fit to make no direct appropriation from the treasury for the agricultural societies.

TRANSFER TAX BUREAU.

The income derived from taxable transfers during the past fiscal year has been highly satisfactory, the net receipts, $4,665,735, being the largest ever paid into the State Treasury from this source. These receipts exceeded those of the previous year by $1,362,181, an increase of over 40 per cent.; were $581,129 greater than in 1901, and $330,932 more than for the year 1900. The result is especially gratifying compared with previous years for the reason that there have been no exceptionally large taxes paid from single estates, only three paying a tax above $100,000 ($119,223, $127,780 and $131,122), whereas in 1900, the record year before this for transfer tax collections, one estate alone paid $1,934,753 and two inclusive $439,483, the three estates paying over 50 per cent. of the whole amount received. In 1901 four estates paid an aggregate of $1,128,866, or over 25 per cent. of the total receipts of such year. The total number of estates paying taxes during the year closing September 30, 1903, was 3,767 as compared with 3,277 in 1902, 3,059 in 1901, 2,818 in 1900 and 2,721 in 1899.

The amendment to the statute by the last Legislature, being chapter 41 of the Laws of 1903, under which real property passing to the one per cent. class is included among taxable transfers, did not appreciably increase the receipts for the fiscal year for the reason that such amendment only applies to estates of decedents since March 16, 1903, the date when such amendment became a law, and payments are rarely made within six months from the death of deceased. The amount realized from such amendment for the six months it was in force was but $22,058. During the present fiscal year, however, the receipts of this Department should be materially increased from this source.

Notwithstanding the increase of moneys collected and the corresponding growth of the work of the Department incident thereto, the cost of collection has greatly decreased, the rate for the past fiscal year being 6.07 per cent. as compared with 6.44 per cent. in 1902, 7.87 per cent. in 1901, 7.84 per cent. in 1900 and 12.22 per cent. in 1899. The difference in such rate represents a saving in 1903 over 1902 of $18,605.20. A comparison of the years 1899 and 1903 may be of interest as showing a reduction in the percentage cost of collection since salaried appraisers of estates have been designated by the department in place of attorneys formerly appointed by surrogates of the several counties, whose services were paid for by an allowance from the tax assessed, at the discretion of the court. The amendments accomplishing this change were enacted at the sessions of 1901 and 1902. By the present system in fourteen counties the appraisals are made by salaried officials and in the other forty-seven counties, by county treasurers. In 1903 the sum of $278,890 was the expense of collection for the year after deducting $26,341, salaries of clerks employed by the State in surrogates' offices, an expense imposed by the amendments of 1900 and 1901 which in 1899 was not an item charged against the Department. The net amount of transfer tax paid into the Treasury was $4,665,735. For the year 1899 net receipts were paid into the Treasury amounting to $2,194,612, collected at a net expense of $310,040. The record also shows that in 1903 3,767 estates paid taxes as against 2,721 in 1899, the cost of collection being lowered although the number of estates paying taxes increased by forty per cent.

There was refunded in 1903 the sum of $57,464.53, the greater portion of which was on account of prepayments in excess of the tax before an assessment of the same had been made, to avoid penalties which might accrue from delayed payments; the remainder of such refunds are a result of appeals from taxing orders, where a portion or all of such taxes was directed to be refunded.

In the current litigation of the year, expanding with the larger volume of business transacted, precedents have been established that will expedite a disposition of cases in future and prevent many vexatious appeals to the courts.

Among those of general interest is the matter of Blackstone, wherein the United States Supreme Court, in an appeal brought from a judgment of the Court of Appeals of this State, decided that funds of the decedent, late a resident of Illinois, deposited with a New York corporation, were subject to our transfer tax laws, thereby sustaining the rulings of our courts and the action of this Department in taxing such property at the situs of the property itself.

In the matter of Vanderbilt, the Court of Appeals decided that an amendment of 1899 had changed the law taxing contingent estates so that where property is transferred in trust, the tax thereon is immediately payable, although the interest of the transferees may be wholly changed by subsequent conditions, the tax being payable at the highest rate which on the happening of such contingencies would be possible.

In the matter of Hellman, a final decision determined that a seat in the New York Stock Exchange was property subject to a transfer tax, a conclusion likely to prove important hereafter in the appraisal of that class of personal assets.

The Court of Appeals decided adversely to the Department in the matter of Scrimgeour, and in the matter of Silliman, involving the power of surrogates on petition and notice to vacate or modify a taxing decree after the time for appeal has expired. Where the order or decree is pursuant to a void statute or for any reason is shown to be without jurisdiction, no question can be raised after such a finding. In many instances the merits can not be proven in protection of the State's interest, where other grounds are alleged in the application, and lapse of time prevents a discovery of the obscured truth. A reasonable statute of limitations within which parties to a legal proceeding for the assessment of a tax should appeal or move for other relief, or be barred from further prosecution of the matter, could not be an injustice to contestants and would be an equitable safeguard against a possible serious depletion of revenue. Under advice of eminent counsel, the department has relied until these recent decisions upon a supposed effective limitation, and if the provisions are inapplicable, or equivocal, or inconsistent with other clauses regulating similar proceedings, an amendment is to be desired.

The question of the present taxability of property passing under a power of appointment has also been finally decided by the Court of Appeals in the matter of Howe, holding that no transfer tax is due until the exercise of the power.

Under section 230 of the Tax Law, it is directed that the value of every future or limited estate dependent upon any life or lives in being, shall be determined by the rules employed by the Superintendent of Insurance in ascertaining the value of policies of life insurance, except that the rate of interest shall be five per centum per annum, and section 232 provides that the Superintendent of Insurance shall on the application of any surrogate determine the value of any such future or contingent estate and certify the same to the surrogate. The practice in this regard might be materially simplified if the value of such future or limited estates were authorized to be computed by the appraisers in accordance with the rule and practice of courts of record in determining the value of life estates and remainders by the Northampton tables, as provided in Supreme Court Rule No. 70. The latter method is accessible and familiar to all attorneys and can be applied by any person in proving a computation officially made, whereas the insurance tables are complicated and only understood by a few experts and are not obtainable for general use even if permitted by law. Unless there are objections not now apparent, the Northampton tables would be preferred for this purpose, without any reflection upon the present system or those entrusted with authority to fix valuations by its use.

LAND TAX BUREAU.The Forest Preserve.

At the end of the fiscal year 1902 the Forest Preserve comprised 1,402,445.44 acres. During the year ending September 30, 1903, the State acquired title to 277 acres, by purchase, and 486 acres by compromise, and lost by redemption 840.135 acres, and by judgment of the Supreme Court 1,000 acres, leaving the aggregate on October 1, 1903, 1,401,368.305 acres. The purchase referred to above was made by the Forest, Fish and Game Commission, the consideration being $415.50, or $1.50 per acre. Since the enactment of chapter 220 of the Laws of 1897, the purchases made by the Forest Preserve Board and its successors aggregated 449,545.81 acres, the consideration paid therefor being $1,681,490.75.

Special Cases of Disputed Title.

There are several small parcels of land within the forest preserve to which title was acquired by the State through tax sales for unpaid non-resident taxes, which are occupied by persons claiming to be the fee owners thereof. The Comptroller's report for the year ending September 30, 1902, suggests a commission of representatives from the departments whose duties relate to forest lands, for an investigation of these cases. The members would serve without additional compensation and their report advise proceedings or legislation for the adjustment of the controversies. In a few localities the equities are prima facie with the occupants, which if sustained by an expert examination should authorize the State by direct action to relinquish its technical record title and not remain a constant claimant to petty parcels of land where litigation for its possession can not be justified. The subject is again submitted for consideration.

Taxation of State Lands.

Since the enactment of chapter 280, of the Laws of 1886, authorizing the taxation of the wild or forest lands belonging to the State, the acreage of the State's lands has only increased about 228 per cent., while the taxes thereon have increased over 510 per cent.

That this increase is due not alone to the natural increase in the value of the lands but also to the large increase in local expenses is self evident. In view of the fact that the State, in permitting the taxation of these lands has departed from its policy, so far as these lands are concerned, of holding State property exempt from taxation, it would seem only right and proper that it should have some supervision over the matter of the assessment and taxation thereof. If authority were given the Comptroller to appoint a competent person to represent the State, its interests could be safeguarded.

One of the great sources of local expense is the right that towns now have to bond themselves for large amounts. This right might well be made conditional upon the approval of the owners of at least two-thirds of the property appearing upon the assessment rolls of forest preserve townships, where the proposed bond issue exceeds a certain limitation. As the State owns from 35 per cent. to 80 per cent. of the property in the several towns that would be affected by this change in the law, its consent would be necessary before bonds in large amounts could be issued, and should it be found, on investigation, that the issuance of such bonds was unnecessary, the State's consent should be withheld.

The equitable assessment of State lands is yearly becoming of greater importance to the State and, in my opinion, merits the careful consideration of the Legislature. Owing to the inhibition of section 7, of article 7, of the Constitution, the Forest Preserve lands cannot be "leased, sold or exchanged nor shall the timber thereon be sold, removed or destroyed." As said section also provides that these lands "shall be forever kept as wild forest lands," it will be readily seen that the provision authorizing the assessment and taxation thereof "at a like valuation and rate as similar lands of individuals within the counties where situated," is somewhat ambiguous, as it would be impossible to find lands of individuals in said counties with these restrictions.

In view of this fact, some method of procedure should be devised for fixing a valuation at which these lands may be assessed not to exceed a certain price per acre. The chief motive in the purchase of wild lands is to retain the forests, and if private lands may be denuded and left entirely waste and doubly dangerous when abandoned, while the State's originally similar lands are subject to an annual increase of assessments on the basis of appreciating market values of standing timber which can neither be cut nor sold and therefore has nothing but a hypothetical commercial value, the burden upon the State Treasury will soon become relatively extortionate. The trees in the Forest Preserve being forever unsalable are a feature of the natural scenery of that region into which the elements of bargains and prices do not enter. To recognize assessments of permanent standing upon the assumed worth of property instantly destroyed by the act of realizing upon an appraisal would seem as inequitable to the State as to permit special assessments of mill sites at favorable points along streams in the Forest Preserve, whose waters have been restored and protected from the ravages of lumbermen, by reasoning that the mill power is in existence and in private ownership similarly situated could be profitably utilized.

It is akin to a policy of assessing occasional hotel sites in municipal parks for the relief of individual citizens owning surrounding property. The State in its holdings should not be discriminated against when consenting to local taxation of its unproductive property reserved for the benefit of all the people. A fair valuation as wild land compared with other wild lands of a locality, irrespective of a contractor's estimate of its stumpage value, might be defined, with a maximum price per acre, and thus avoid a growing cause of dissension between State and local interests on this question.

An amendment to section 9 of the Tax Law, making it compulsory to assess to the State all lands claimed by the State, would save considerable expense. Under the present statute assessors usually assess to the person occupying the land, who may have no color of title whatever, but who by paying taxes and obtaining receipts for a few years asserts a claim to ownership against the record title of the State, trusting that a local jury will sustain a neighbor if forced into court. As the courts have held that the State is actually in possession and an occupant of all real property legally acquired by it, a provision for the entry upon assessment rolls of lands so held ought to be made mandatory.

Repair of Highways—Money System.

The following statement shows the amount paid by the State for taxes levied for the repair of highways in towns under the "money system" since the enactment of chapter 351 of the Laws of 1898, viz.:

1898.....	$34,517 73
1899.....	54,057 55

1900.....	$67,655 84
1901.....	102,509 85
1902.....	276,249 04

The increased amount paid for taxes of 1902 was caused by the enactment of chapter 156 of the Laws of 1902 increasing the State's proportion from 25 per cent. to 50 per cent. of sums raised by the respective towns and by reason of additional towns adopting the money system so as to share in such increase. It will probably require from $360,000 to $385,000 to pay the State's proportion of the 1903 tax.

The large and constantly increasing contributions for this purpose naturally suggests the inquiry whether there should not be some State supervision relative to their expenditure.

As the work of construction and improvement of roads, pursuant to chapter 115 of the Laws of 1898 (known as the Higbie-Armstrong Good Roads Law) is under the direction of the State Engineer, it would seem proper that the same officer should be consulted as to the manner in which highways are to be repaired and also to have some supervision over the expenditure of the moneys appropriated for such repair.

County Roads.

By chapter 269 of the Laws of 1903 the Highway Law was amended by adding thereto a section to be known as section 53b.

This section provides for the payment by the State of fifty per centum of the amount appropriated for the maintenance of county roads which have heretofore been constructed without expense to the State.

The statements thus far received show the amount that the State will be called upon to pay under this law for the past year is $15,000 to Rockland county and $250 to Putnam county. The Department has no record of the extent of county roads for which claims may be presented.

Adirondack Exemption Claims.

Pursuant to the provisions of chapter 217 of the Laws of 1889 as amended by chapter 515 of the Laws of 1901, claims aggregating $160,000 were presented at this office by the counties of Essex, Hamilton and Warren. The claims of Essex and Warren county were denied on the ground that they were barred by the statute of limitations and such denials were sustained by the courts. The claim of Hamilton county was audited at $17,048.30 and the county given credit therefor with the proviso that said amount would be paid "when the Legislature made an appropriation for such purpose."

Assessments for Local Improvements.

Under the provisions of section 20 of the Public Lands Law (chapter 317, Laws of 1894) lands owned by the State appear to be assessable for local improvements. Said section provides that "A person, body or board authorized to assess lands for local improvements or purposes, shall serve on the Comptroller of the State, at least three weeks prior to the confirmation of the same, a written notice of every assessment on State lands, showing the purpose for which the assessment is made, the State lands assessed and the amounts for which they are assessed, and referring to the law authorizing the assessment, and no such assessment shall be legal unless such notice is duly served. * * * * All assessments legally made on State lands, and all legal rents or charges thereon, shall be audited by the Comptroller and paid out of the Treasury."

The local authorities while making an attempt to comply with the provisions of said section do not, in many cases, succeed in making their notices of assessments strictly conform thereto, and, consequently, the legality of the assessments may be questioned on the ground of improper or incomplete notices. There are now on file in this office claims for unpaid assessments aggregating $134,118.36, as follows, viz.:

Auburn	$3,102 70	Brooklyn.....	} $15,779 93
Buffalo	29,348 44	New York.....
Lockport	24 00	Rochester	64,114 70
Middletown	834 71	Syracuse	20,077 41
		Utica	836 47

Some of these claims have been investigated and their payment approved, but the greater part should in my opinion be referred to the Court of Claims for a proper award of the amount found equitably due.

The moneys annually appropriated by the Legislature for the payment of these claims has been wholly inadequate, and it is suggested the appropriation this year should be sufficiently large to meet all legal claims.

Of claims aggregating $44,903.47 there have been investigated and found valid $29,237.06, the remaining claims amounting to $15,666.41 are under investigation and are likely to prove valid. It is estimated that there will be at least $20,000 of legal claims presented during the ensuing year.

BUREAU OF CANAL AFFAIRS.

Under the provisions of section 264 of the Code of Civil Procedure, the Court of Claims has jurisdiction to hear and determine a private claim against the State, which shall have accrued within two years before the claim is filed. I am informed that the filing of a great many of these claims against the State is deferred until the very last day of this period, which is to the great disadvantage of the State in defending its interests, and it is fair to assume that this delay is largely for the purpose of preventing the State from having a proper knowledge of the conditions at the time the damages were sustained. Ample time would be given if the Code were amended to provide for service of notice of intention to file a claim within three months or even less from the date of suffering damage, as within that period any person feeling aggrieved would know the extent of damages sustained and be prepared to file a claim.

Under the provisions of the finance law, the Comptroller is now authorized to invest the trust funds and canal debt sinking fund in judgments of the Court of Claims, which is in accordance with the recommendation made in the previous reports of the Comptroller. The amount invested in these judgments for the canal debt sinking fund aggregated nearly $60,000 from the time the law went into effect in May, 1903, until September 30 following. As these judgments bear 6 per cent. interest and the State receives but 2 per cent. or 3 per cent. on moneys in the treasury, it is apparent that by the purchase of its own interest bearing obligations the State will receive considerable benefit.

It has been the practice of nearly all the institutions designated to receive canal fund deposits, to execute bonds therefor with individuals as sureties. In most instances the directors contributed to the justification and there were bonds presented with only the officers justifying. The Commissioners of the Canal Fund have inaugurated the wise business policy of adopting a resolution requiring all banks now receiving these deposits to substitute surety company bonds for individual bonds. It has long been the experience of the Department that where surety bonds have been executed the fund has been promptly restored to its original condition where the banks have been forced to close their doors. This has not been true where individuals have justified.

Under the provisions of the Canal Law, the Comptroller is authorized to advance from time to time to the division engineers such an amount as may be necessary to meet the expenses of the engineering department on account of the canals. The advances unaccounted for cannot exceed at any time $5,000. In view of the passage of chapter 147 of the Laws of 1903, commonly known as the "barge canal" law, it will be necessary in the work of the division engineers to have this amount materially increased, and I accordingly recommend that the Canal Law be amended to provide for an increase in the amount to be advanced to the division engineers and a corresponding increase in the amount of the bond to be filed by them.

COURT AND TRUST FUNDS.

For the first time since this Department had imposed upon it the duty of supervising the administration of moneys paid into court, it has been possible to practically fulfill the requirement for an examination of the accounts of each county at least once in each year. During the year just passed an examination has been conducted in every county of the State but one, and an investigation of the accounts in that county will be undertaken within a few weeks. The efficiency of the local administration of these funds naturally increases with the frequency of the departmental examinations and these accounts are unquestionably in better condition to-day than ever before.

The examination of the counties composing the city of New York, which has occupied the attention of the department for over two years, has been completed. The immensity of this task can hardly be appreciated by one unfamiliar with the work, involving as it has the examination of thousands of accounts, a large number of which originated twenty-five, fifty and seventy-five years ago, aggregating many millions of dollars. Future investigations will, however, only cover a period beginning with the date of the present exhaustive examination and will of necessity be of a much less complicated nature.

The report of my predecessor called attention to the investigation of certain charges of irregularity and negligence in the investment of these funds in bond and mortgage by former treasurers of Erie county, and to the fact that the then treasurer of that county had been directed to bring suit upon the official bonds of the treasurers mentioned. It is a matter of regret that these actions have not as yet been pressed to trial, but the unexpected death of Mr. Worthington C. Minor, the attorney who conducted the special investigation for this Department, and to whom the prosecution of the actions was entrusted by the local officials, has caused an unavoidable delay. However, the Department is assured that the cases are now being prepared and will be prosecuted by the county officials with celerity.

During the past year an action was begun and pressed to trial against an ex-treasurer of Sullivan county, and his bondsmen, to determine the liability of that official for a loss resulting from a loan of trust funds upon bond and mortgage, made by him without the proper authority of the court. This being the first suit of the character brought by direction of the Comptroller under the authority given by Chapter 112, Laws of 1901, it is gratifying to report that judgment was rendered in favor of the county for the full amount of the loss and the interest thereon. The defendant has, however, appealed from the judgment of the trial court and the appeal will probably be argued at an early date.

The constantly recurring losses resulting from investments of these trust funds upon bond and mortgage leads to the conclusion that, until the average county treasurer more fully appreciates the responsibility which rests upon him in making investments of this character and in caring for those made by his predecessors, such investments should be prohibited, and this prohibition can probably be best effected by an amendment to the General Rules of Practice. The necessity for action of this character has been repeatedly pointed out by this department, and the restrictions imposed upon treasurers in making loans have been made as rigorous as possible, but in spite of these facts losses have continued to occur and the subject demands serious consideration.

UNITED STATES DEPOSIT FUND.

This trust fund under the State Finance Law is included with the common school fund and literature fund as a part of the education fund by article 4 of that statute, but is managed pursuant to provisions applying to no other fund or class of investments for public moneys, and with results and tendencies so unsatisfactory that a change of method seems imperative for the preservation of the fund and for the advantage of citizens entitled to the benefits contemplated by the original acts under which the money was accepted by the State.

The common school fund and literature fund as parts of the education fund of the State are held and managed under the supervision of the Comptroller's office, in the same direct and responsible control as are all financial affairs of the State, and which general experience proves to be safe, economical and productive of an assured revenue comparing favorably with the income from similar investments by institutions established for business purposes and conducting financial operations. Their capital is kept invested in stocks and bonds of the United States or this State, or in bonds of any county, town, city, village or school district of the State authorized to be issued by law. There is a constant demand throughout the State for loans on local municipal bonds issued for the construction of schoolhouses, improved roads, village water works and sewerage plants, fire protection, public buildings and parks, and other public betterments which have become necessities within recent years of progress, and in the possession of which every inhabitant of a community derives an immediate personal advantage and feels a pecuniary interest, if a taxpayer, in obtaining a low rate of interest. The Attorney-General in every instance passes upon the forms of legal proceedings and the validity of a proposed issue of bonds.

The United States deposit fund is distributed in the care of one hundred and twenty-two loan commissioners, two in each county, if the positions are filled, whose offices are at their several homes and at stated days at the various offices of the county clerks, where they attend to receive moneys. The interest rate for loans is five per cent. per annum, a charge which in the year 1837 and conditions then existing was extremely favorable to owners of land, but has long since ceased to be an inducement to borrowers having good security, and relegates deposit fund mortgages to the poorer quality of property. The two commissioners have absolute charge of the mortgages and collections in their respective counties, may foreclose on default and discharge mortgages when paid. Should they disagree, the Supreme Court settles their differences. One commissioner has the power of two until an associate is appointed. The mortgage and record books may be taken by them from the clerk's office and returned when not in use, a practice causing inconvenience to the public and which might create doubt as to the integrity of the records. The receipts are paid over once a year, the commissioners being allowed to deduct their own compensation, costs, disbursements and expenses, which when reported may be in part disallowed and lead to protracted difficulties before adjustment. While the loan commissioners are required to report to the Comptroller, the latter if objecting to any matter therein can only compromise or complain to the Executive if the case be serious, when upon sufficient cause and the recommendation of the Governor, the power of removal can be exercised by the Senate alone. Loans may be made on improved lands worth double the amount applied for exclusive of buildings. In practice this limitation is frequently ignored or the opportunities for deception are so great as to negative the intended protection. Defaults occur and the foreclosure generally reveals an appraisal of misplaced confidence. The restriction of amounts permitted in one loan may be evaded by so-called divisions of a tract into lots and advancing loans to the limit on a series of consecutive parcels at valuations to meet the letter of the law.

At a sale, mortgaged premises not bringing an offer to cover loan, interest and costs, must be bid in by the State; then costs, disbursements and reasonable expenses must be allowed, commissions paid on both market price and deficiency unless fraud or neglect is established, and the property so taken is rarely sold for more than a fraction of its cost to the State, either on a long or short term of retention. In cooperation with the passive authority of the Comptroller, the commissioners of the land office have direction of the loan commissioners in their care of the property bid in at sales until it is disposed of. In further supposed guarding of public interests in the conduct of these investments, county boards of supervisors and the board of aldermen of New York city have power to examine mortgages and accounts of loan commissioners in their respective counties and may give directions for taking additional security from borrowers and certify the condition to the Comptroller. The complication of inspection and supervision from many sources without a location of definite authority does not work well in any business, and experience with this system, or lack of it, serves to emphasize the strictures applied to its practical operation by all of my immediate predecessors in office. Under the radical changes of the past sixty years the anticipated benefits from distributing loans of small amounts in remote rural districts have become legendary and the method proves to be antiquated, expensive and inefficient for the purpose.

During the year ending September 30, 1900, the aggregate sum held by the loan commissioners was slightly above \$1,500,000, paying interest at about $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent., but after deducting in compliance with the statute the money transferred to the capital fund to make good the losses suffered in foreclosing mortgages, the net revenue for that year from the fund outstanding on loans was less than two-tenths of one per cent.

In the following year, as appears by the report of Comptroller Knight, the net rate of interest received was 2.22 per cent.

For the year 1902, Comptroller Miller reports the net income at practically 3.41 per cent. This, however, does not include losses which had already been incurred but not yet determined by foreclosure sale. Lands bid in for the State shortly after the date of his annual report, but in relation to which proceedings are not completed so the loss can be charged on the books, will exhaust the entire estimated income of the fund for the next two years or more.

The average net rate of interest earned on loan commissioners' mortgages since the year 1895, was 2.02 per cent., while during the same period the net rate of interest received on municipal bonds held by the Comptroller was 3.75 per cent.

The records of the Department also show that at the close of the year 1902, the State owned approximately 18,000 acres of land acquired through foreclosure of loan mortgages during many years, upon which the rents collected for that year were less than one per cent. of the cost of the land to the State. The figures for the year 1903, while varying in quantity of land, exhibit a similar return of rentals less than one per cent. of the cost price. As the State must maintain the principal intact and transfer from its treasury what moneys are necessary to make losses good, if exceeding interest receipts on the deposit fund, it is most desirable that these holdings be placed under a supervision where adequate returns can be secured or the property sold. The acreage from this source is constantly increasing, much of it unsalable or only disposed of at a heavy loss. It has been the experience of the office that the premises bid in by the State rapidly depreciate in value after purchase. The lands may be scattered through a county and the loan commissioners find it inconvenient or impossible to give their personal supervision and proper care to these lands. The compensation of the commissioners is small and they feel, and as a matter of fact, they cannot afford, to devote all of the time to the care of this fund. Some difficulty is experienced in keeping loan commissioners in office; several of the counties contain but one loan commissioner, which results in a complication in case of the resignation or death of that commissioner. There is no provision of law which gives the Comptroller power to examine into the security upon which a loan is to be made. The commissioners use their own discretion in this matter, and while the law prescribes what constitutes a good loan, the Comptroller has no means of knowing whether this provision of the law has been complied with. A questionable provision of the statute is that which allows the loan commissioners to deposit in a savings bank or an incorporated bank any sum of principal received by them until the same can be reinvested in mortgage. No restriction is made as to the length of time such sum may remain on deposit before reinvestment, and no provision is made for the bank giving security, being the only case where State moneys are deposited without such protection.

It is not disputed that errors may be made in the procedure of placing loans upon municipal bond issues, but I am informed that no losses whatever have occurred in such investments. In one case only has there been default and litigation, which is not yet finished, and under an adverse decision it is believed the loan may still be protected by legislation.

In the foregoing comments and comparison of the system gradually developed in conducting other general financial investments for the State with the peculiar, impracticable and wasteful manner of caring for the United States deposit fund, there is no purpose other than to correct an increasing evil of administration. The necessity for statutory amendment is, I think, demonstrated. It is sincerely hoped a remedy may be provided before the trust fund becomes an annual charge upon the taxpayers instead of an aid.

ESTIMATES FOR SUPPLIES FOR INSTITUTIONS.

The maintenance of State hospitals, prisons and charitable institutions is furnished upon bimonthly and monthly estimates submitted by the heads of institutions or departments, under provisions of law specifying in minute detail their manner of preparation. No exceptions are made in the law for the purchase of any character of supplies. As transportation rates vary widely with the change of seasons and prices for coal and contracts therefor can be obtained at great advantage to the State, both in decreasing the aggregate cost and in assuring an unfailing supply for establishments remote from coal markets, it would be judicious to permit the respective authorities to make estimates and place their orders for a full year's supply of coal at the most favorable period of the summer. To buy the enormous tonnage of coal consumed in either twelve or six installments evenly distributed through the year as required by the statute, and at prevailing market prices when estimated for and purchased, would not only heavily increase the cost of fuel but assume the risk of a coal famine to any of the thirty-seven institutions from labor strikes or impassable conditions of traffic during inclement seasons. The supply of ice is another staple, which for obvious reasons can be acquired and stored at a seasonable time much more economically by a single contract than by the existing plan of successive estimates. Instances have occurred where fluctuations in the price of perishable articles of provisions, or an impending shortage of the crop of a staple, has been urged to justify an allowance of accounts for purposes exceeding the prescribed estimates, but without an amendment modifying the statute in specific terms, this Department will adhere to its established rules of audit. As to the necessity of an exemption of coal and ice from monthly estimates there seems to be no question.

STATE PRINTING.

The wisdom of the Legislature in enacting the present printing law (chapter 507, Laws of 1901) has been proven by successful results during the past year. The power therein conferred on the Printing Board to reject proposals for contracts unfavorable to the State having been sustained by the Court of Appeals, a contract was secured for the State printing for the past year upon business principles, and no complaint has been heard from any of the various departments as to the quality of the work or the prices charged. The printing for the State, both legislative and departmental, was never in a more satisfactory condition.

Necessary printing for the various departments involves large expenditures under an economical administration, and insidiously extends with favoring circumstances owing to the numerous sources authorized to place orders independently of a central supervision, and from the latitude exercised in publishing unabridged masses of statistics of no practical use, and of interest only to a very few who might readily make personal application for the detailed information. From October 1, 1895, to September 30, 1899, the sums annually paid for State printing average $385,500, being the actual disbursements upon prior or pending contracts and exclusive of sums to be subsequently due upon uncompleted work. From October 1, 1899, to September 30, 1901, the average annual payments for the two years was a trifle more than $365,000. For the year ending September 30, 1902, there was paid $320,334.91, and for the last fiscal year to September 30, 1903, $213,421.37, indicating a gratifying diminution of yearly cost, attributable to new and definite statutory provisions for contracts and an intelligible audit of accounts presented thereunder.

The total amount of appropriations for legislative printing authorized by the Legislature of 1903 amounted to $356,000. Of this sum $250,000 is in the general appropriation act, taking effect October 1, 1903, for the year ending September 30, 1904, and $106,000 for work ordered or on hand prior to September, 30, 1902.

The money on hand October 1, 1903, available for legislative printing was $445,123.29, of which sum $56,998.37 was for printing incurred prior to October 1, 1902, and $138,124.92 for work incurred prior to October 1, 1903. The appropriation for work for the present year is $250,000, which under the present contract rates is considered ample to pay for all printing for the year ending September 30, 1904, unless the Legislature should order work of an unusual character, in which case an amount should be specially appropriated sufficient to pay for same.

The amount paid for printing during the year ending September 30, 1903, was $213,421.37. Unfinished work remains in the hands of the printers, the estimated cost of which together with retained balances payable on completion of the work, amounts to approximately a total of $177,311.22 for legislative printing incurred prior to October 1, 1903, for which there is available $195,123.29, leaving an unexpended balance estimated at $17,812.07. This is the first year in a decade when there have been funds in an appropriation for printing sufficient to meet all valid claims. It is a matter of congratulation that for once there will be no call for an item in the supply bill to meet deficiencies.

The appropriations for the coming year should be from $250,000 to $300,000 as the probable needs are determined at the legislative session. It is hardly to be expected that the State can secure as favorable terms as for the last year on account of an advance in wages taking effect January 1, 1904. As it is manifestly for the advantage of the public to retain the present admirable law regulating the contracts and payments for this class of State work, which under former provisions has been a source of alleged extravagance and scandal, proposed amendments should be rigidly scrutinized when submitted and all doubts as to the intended purpose resolved into a prompt rejection. Improvements might possibly be made, but the law is now so much better than anything preceding it that to continue without alteration is at least a safe policy.

A practice in relation to publishing supplemental matter has been inaugurated to a limited extent in departments whereby in addition to formal reports to the Legislature a series of books are issued as bulletins or appendices for which no specific appropriation has been made, and which do not appear in the estimates nor come to the knowledge of authorities having charge of expenditures until bills are presented. The amount paid for this special work in the past year was about $60,000, against which there may be no objection except that a precedent is being established to be followed by an increase of departments on the list and a progressive rate of unexpected accounts for which no provision has been made. A submission to the legislative finance committees of estimates for proposed printing by departments having exceptional work done would avoid both confusion and deficiencies.

UNIFORM CLASSIFICATION OF MUNICIPAL ACCOUNTS.

A problem of increasing public interest and of importance in possible benefits to taxpayers is being presented to municipal and legislative bodies of the country by organizations representing an active public sentiment for an improved and uniform system of classification of municipal accounts, showing the financial operations and conditions of cities of the several classes for comparison of the detailed cost of municipal government in different localities. Many financial officers of various cities and states have taken part in the movement through a national conference called by the Census Bureau of the Federal Department of Commerce and Labor, which assembled at Washington, D. C., in November last. At the suggestion of the Governor a representative from this Department was duly accredited in the person of the chief accountant of the finance bureau. The preliminary work of this meeting indicates practical and conservative measures for developing a system of public accounting and reporting, that when the purpose is understood may lead to its adoption to some extent until direct advantages are felt by communities, and ultimately to a perfected scheme as a branch of state government.

New York State having uniform charters for cities can easily make a careful experiment of the utility of such records and reports. By existing law the comptrollers of second class cities are required to annually publish a full statement of the financial condition of their respective cities, showing in detail the receipts and disbursements, and to file a copy of such statement with the State Comptroller. Such reports have been generally filed, but as they differ essentially in form no practical deductions are possible and no public use appears to have been made of the information furnished. A prescribed form for the statement and a uniform method of keeping accounts of certain specified receipts and expenditures by fiscal officers of the various cities would render the details of their reports of the greatest interest and value when compiled for comparison and given publicity.

A law was enacted at the session of 1903 requiring the filing of classified reports annually with the Secretary of State by second and third class cities, and granting to that official necessary authority in prescribing forms therefor. The law is not yet in active operation, but is a tentative step in the right direction, and the returns in compliance with its provisions and in conjunction with facts embodied in the many classes of municipal reports required to be filed with this Department should exhibit with convincing force the need of extending a system well begun.

A bill was introduced in the Assembly at the same session (1903, reprint number 2101) providing for a complete scheme of municipal accounting, and a supervision thereof, which probably failed because attempting too much in one measure. If the various ideas upon this subject which have been acted upon recently by the Legislature either favorably or adversely could have consideration, and the simpler and undeniably good proposals be placed together in one brief statute, it would be sufficient for the purpose of testing its practical worth, and a progressive plan may be gradually developed if its merits are demonstrated.

Respectfully submitted,

OTTO KELSEY,

Comptroller.

ONONDAGA SALT SPRINGS.

OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT OF THE ONONDAGA SALT SPRINGS,
SYRACUSE, October 1, 1903.

HON. NATHAN L. MILLER, Comptroller of the State of New York,
Albany, N. Y.:

Dear Sir.—Pursuant to chapter 27 of the Laws of 1898, I have the honor to submit my report for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1903.

1st. That the amount of salt inspected on the Onondaga Salt Springs Reservation was 1,990,307 $\frac{4}{5}\frac{9}{6}$ bushels.

2d. The duties received thereon were $19,903.05. There were also received further sums as follows: Old reservoir, $100; old engine, $115; rent of office, $30; making a total of $20,148.05.

3d. The amount expended during the same period was $20,169.68.

4th. Showing an excess of expenditures over receipts of $21.63.

5th. The vouchers showing the expenditures for the year are already on file in your office as per monthly statement annexed.

The amount of salt inspected on the Onondaga Salt Springs Reservation for the fiscal year ending the 30th of September, 1903, and the amount of duties collected thereon as heretofore reported monthly to the Comptroller are as follows:

	Bush.	Lbs.	Duties.
October, 1902.....	241,381	3	$2,413 79
November, 1902.....	220,034	54	2,200 34

	<hr/>	<hr/>	<hr/>
	1,990,307	49	$19,903 05
	<hr/>	<hr/>	<hr/>

Expenditures for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1903, were as follows:

Amount expended October, 1902.....	$1,883 78
November and December, 1902.	2,353 58
January and February, 1903...	2,173 23

September, 1903	2,015 80
	<hr/>
	$20,169 68
	<hr/>

In further compliance with the above chapter, I have to report as now in my hands $3,529.98, and that this amount together with the revenues to accrue from the manufacture of salt during the next season will in my judgment be sufficient for the operation of the State works for the ensuing year.

Respectfully yours,

CHARLES HISCOCK,
Superintendent Onondaga Salt Springs.

*The original apportionment and distribution of the United States Deposit Fund in 1837 was made in anticipation of receiving $5,352,604 from the United States Treasury. Only $4,014,520.71 of that amount was received therefrom, the balance having been borrowed in that year from the Canal Fund at an interest of 6 per cent, which balance was afterward repaid to the Canal Fund. The corrected apportionment of the Deposit Fund was made from the actual amount received from the United States Treasury in 1837, viz., $4,014,520.71.

General repairs of arsenals, armories and rifle ranges and commissioners' expenses.....	656,191 27
Total	$4,887,534 60

In addition to the above schedule covering the expenditures by the State for building and furnishing normal schools, the following amounts were authorized to be raised by bonding the various localities, viz.:

Brockport, by chapter 21, Laws of 1867.....	$50,000 00
Cortland, by chapter 199, Laws of 1867.....	50,000 00
Fredonia, by chapter 223, Laws of 1867.....	100,000 00
Geneseo, by chapter 195, Laws of 1867, and chap- ter 601, Laws of 1868.....	115,000 00
Potsdam, by chapter 6, Laws of 1867, and chapter 68, Laws of 1868.....	78,000 00
	$393,000 00

By chapter 170, Laws of 1867, the common council of the city of Oswego was empowered to convey to the State the normal school buildings, with the ground, apparatus, books, furniture and appurtenances, so that the original cost of this school is not included in the foregoing schedule. The same might be said of the Oneonta, New Paltz and Jamaica normal schools.

It is a difficult matter to obtain the exact cost of the various arsenals and armories in the State, in view of the fact that in many instances expenditures were made by the various localities. This is particularly true of the arsenals in New York, Brooklyn and Buffalo.

Commission to Investigate the Condition of the Adult Blind in the State of New York.

STATE OF NEW YORK:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER.

ALBANY, February 15, 1904.

To the Legislature:

I have the honor to transmit herewith the report of the Commission to Investigate the Condition of the Adult Blind in the State of New York.

B. B. ODELL, JR.

REPORT.

To the Honorable the Legislature of the State of New York:

Gentlemen—In accordance with the provisions of chapter 576, Laws of 1903, entitled “An act to provide for the appointment of a Commission to Investigate the Condition of the Adult Blind in the State of New York and to report on the expediency of the establishment by the State of industrial training schools or other institutions, and making an appropriation to provide for the expenses of such commission,” which act became a law on May 13, 1903, we, the Commissioners duly appointed by the Governor in accordance with the provisions of the aforesaid act, have now the honor to present the following report:

CIRCUMSTANCES LEADING TO THE APPOINTMENT OF THE COMMISSION.

When the State of New York first began to adopt measures to provide for the education of its blind citizens it was foreseen that as all of them could not follow a professional life it would be necessary to make some provisions for industrial as well as for intellectual training; and hence, first, in the institution for the blind which was established in New York city and later in that which was subsequently established at Batavia industrial departments were inaugurated in which the pupils could learn such trades as experience might show to be most advantageous for their condition.

But it was soon found that very many persons who had lost their sight after they had become adults were extremely desirous of being taught some industrial pursuit, and also that among those who had been thus trained at the two institutions many wished these establishments to continue to provide them with work, claiming that they were unable either to start in business for themselves or to secure employment from others. Each institution in its turn endeavored at first to partially meet these demands; but these endeavors, which at the best necessarily benefited a few only of the many who needed similar assistance, so imperiled the usefulness of these institutions as moral and intellectual educators of the youthful blind and also entailed such financial losses that first in New York city and later at Batavia these endeavors to aid the adult blind were entirely discontinued. Hence, at the present time, while the State has nobly provided for the intellectual and to some extent for the industrial training of blind children in the two institutions which have just been named, those blind persons who lose their sight in adult life have no means of acquiring an industrial trade, while those who have been already thus trained at an institution are compelled to depend entirely upon their own ability to secure work and to support themselves thereby.

It was perfectly natural and right that the State should first give its attention to the education of the youthful blind, and it is also sound to insist that the two institutions which are engaged in this work shall not be burdened with the task of training adults or of providing work for them. Still the question, "What can the State do to ameliorate the condition of the adult blind?" is one which has for some years been forcing itself with ever increasing urgency upon all who have anything to do with those who have lost their sight. As the blind are in general in indigent circumstances, and the adults are far more numerous than the young, it has seemed to many who have considered the subject that it would be impossible for the State, beyond its general charities, to make any adequate provisions for the former class. But even if we are willing to resign to the care of the existing public and private charities all those blind persons who have now become too old to learn or to follow any of the industrial pursuits which are generally considered to be feasible for those who have lost their sight, and also all those younger adult blind persons who have been left by disease physically or mentally unsound, there will still remain a large class of able-bodied adults, and it ought at least to be possible to render most of these people either in whole or in part self-supporting. This view of the case has been taken also by other States, and some of them have already adopted measures designed for the amelioration of the condition of their adult blind citizens.

The foregoing facts, which will, it is hoped, sufficiently explain why some legislation was deemed desirable, led the Senator from Wyoming county, the Hon. Frederick C. Stevens, to frame and to introduce the bill which subsequently became a law, and your Commissioners, who were later designated by the Governor, accepted their several appointments with the hope that after due investigation they might be able to recommend to your honorable body such measures as would in some degree at least accomplish the objects sought by this law. If this hope has not been fully realized, they have at all events given the subject much thoughtful consideration; and have also in the brief time allotted to them for their work carefully examined, so far as possible, all the data available upon which their recommendations should be founded.

ORGANIZATION OF THE COMMISSION.

Owing to a mistake which need not here be explained, the Brooklyn member of your Commission did not receive his appointment until the 23d of June, but on the 26th of the same month the Commission held its first formal meeting and organized by electing the following officers: President, F. Park Lewis, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.; vice-president, Lewis Buffett Carll, A. M., Brooklyn, N. Y.; secretary, O. H. Burritt, A. M., Batavia, N. Y.

Since its organization, which was effected in New York city, the Commission has (1) held six meetings, three in the city of Buffalo, and three at its office in Batavia; (2) has studied and analyzed the United States census of the blind of 1900, together with the New York city list of blind pensioners; (3) has caused to be made a personal visitation of about one-sixth of the entire blind population of the State, besides announcing the appointment of the Commission, and calling for an expression of opinion from about 1,000 more; (4) has had correspondence with all the superintendents of the poor of the State; (5) has held correspondence with all the institutions for the blind in the United States and Canada and with many abroad; (6) has given one formal and two informal hearings to the blind and their friends, and (7) has had correspondence and conference with the chairman of the Massachusetts Commission recently appointed for the same purpose.

Your Commission has also, through one or more of its members, personally visited (1) the Industrial Home for the Blind (men), Brooklyn; (2) the Church Home for Blind Women, Brooklyn; (3) the Society for the Relief of the Destitute Blind, New York city; (4) the St. Joseph's Blind Asylum, Staten Island, New York city; (5) Homes for the Blind, Blackwell's Island,

New York city; (6) the Connecticut Institute and Industrial Home for the Blind, Hartford; (7) the Columbia Polytechnic Institute for the Blind, Washington; (8) the Pennsylvania Working Home for Blind Men, Philadelphia; (9) the Pennsylvania Industrial Home for Blind Women, Philadelphia; (10) the St. Joseph's Home for Blind Females, Jersey City; (11) the Perkins Institution and Massachusetts School for the Blind, South Boston; (12) the Maryland School for the Blind, Baltimore; (13) the Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind, Overbrook, Philadelphia; (14) the Institution for the Blind, New York city; (15) the New York State School for the Blind, Batavia.

But with the exception of this general statement it is believed that the present report should aim to present a comprehensive view of the work as a whole which has been done by the Commission, with as small an amount of chronological or personal detail as circumstances would seem to permit.

TWO LINES OF INVESTIGATION FOR THE COMMISSION.

In soon became evident to the members of your Commission that if they would acquire the knowledge necessary to enable them to make any wise recommendations to your honorable body they must first ascertain, so far as possible, what is the general condition of the adult blind in the State of New York; and second, what public or private measures have already been adopted either in this State or elsewhere to improve the condition of the adult blind. Information regarding the first of these points must be obtained either from an examination of existing public or private records concerning the blind or from some system of personal correspondence or visitation.

PUBLIC AND PRIVATE RECORDS.

Your Commission soon discovered that documentary information regarding the blind of the State of New York was exceedingly meager and untrustworthy. Indeed, the only two records of any extent which could be found are, first, that which was derived from the United States census of 1900 containing the names of 6,008 blind persons; and second, that of the adult blind pensioners of the Greater New York, containing more than 1,000 names.

As it seemed reasonable to hope that a careful examination of these two records might furnish some valuable information bearing upon the work of your Commission, an early effort was made to secure at least one copy of each.

From the State Library at Albany, which had previously received from Washington the last census records of all the blind residing in the State of New York, those records were, through the courtesy of Melvil Dewey, director of this library, forwarded to Batavia to be copied and subsequently returned. From the census list we were able to ascertain with reference to each individual the name, address, degree of blindness (whether total or partial) color, sex, age in 1900, those who are blind and deaf, and blind and deaf and dumb.

In the person of the Hon. Homer Folks, commissioner of charities of New York city, your Commissioners found a coadjutor always ready to do for them in their work whatever might lie within his power. Through the courtesy of this gentleman, and also through that of Second Deputy Commissioner Charles E. Teale of Brooklyn, your Commissioner from the last named city was permitted to make, through any person whom he might wish to send, a copy of the adult blind pension records of the so-called Greater New York.

It seemed desirable in the first place to endeavor to ascertain approximately from their recorded ages how many of the adult blind of the State of New York might be assumed to be now in the prime of life.

By reference to Table II of Appendix A on page 53 of this report it will be observed that of the 6,008 blind persons in the State only 584, or 9.72 per cent., of the total number are under 21 years of age; 3,193, or 53.14 per cent., are over 60 years of age; 1,375, or 22.88 per cent., are between the ages of 21 and 50. This number may reasonably be assumed to be the number of the blind of the State who are now in the prime of life, and these are the persons who may be supposed to be capable of being rendered in whole or in part self-supporting, and for whose interests chiefly your Commission was created.

By reference to the statistical table based upon the pension list of 1903 of the city of New York, which constitutes Appendix B, page 59 of this report, it will be learned that 510, or 50 per cent., of the 1,002 beneficiaries for the current year were between the ages of 21 and 50 and 324, or 32 per cent., of the total number of beneficiaries were above 60 years of age.

It is a notable fact, for which your Commission will not essay to account, that while the census list shows that but 22.88 per cent. of the entire blind population of the State are of what may be assumed to be of working age, that is between the ages of 21 and 50, 50 per cent. of the recipients of the benefactions of the city of New York are within these same age limits; and that quite contrary to what might be expected, only 32 per cent. of the pensioners of the city of New York are above 60 years of age, although over 53 per cent. of the blind of the State are above this age limit.

It was deemed desirable also to endeavor to ascertain what conditions hold among the adult blind of the State with respect to property, marriage and present or previous occupation. But as the records in question, and particularly those of the United States census, failed to furnish the data required, it was found necessary to pursue another mode of investigation.

PERSONAL VISITATION OF THE BLIND.

When available records were found to be unsatisfactory the Batavia member of your Commission having learned of a plan which, although for a different purpose, had been adopted by Mr. Edward E. Allen, superintendent of the School for the Blind in Philadelphia, suggested to his colleagues the employment of a visitor who, taking the addresses of the blind as given in the census report for a general guide, should seek to visit each given blind person in any locality, and also to learn from him of the existence of any other, ascertaining also from his neighbors the reliability of the data given.

This suggestion was adopted, and for the experiment the Commissioner just mentioned had in mind a young man of exceptional fitness, who, although himself blind, generally traveled alone and could therefore better gain the confidence of those blind persons whom he visited. This young man investigated the facts concerning 610 blind persons, visiting practically all of the blind residents of Broome, Cattaraugus, Chautauqua, Chemung, Genesee, Livingston, Orleans, Schuyler, Tioga and Wyoming counties, and some of those residing in Allegany, Erie, Monroe, Niagara and Steuben counties.

When two months of work had demonstrated to the Commission that this plan was a success, and that the material being gathered was of great value to their work, a second young man, likewise without sight, was employed to similarly visit some of the blind in the southeastern part of the State. During the brief time for which he was employed he similarly investigated the facts regarding 192 blind persons resident in Dutchess, Columbia and Putnam counties.

Two young women with sight were likewise employed, one of whom investigated 37 cases in Franklin county, while the other visited 121, resident chiefly in Monroe, Steuben and Wayne counties.

It will thus be seen that in this work the Commission caused to be personally investigated the larger portion of western New York entire, three counties in southeastern New York and one in northern New York, so that all sections of the State are represented in the results obtained.

Because it was believed that more was known, or could be easily ascertained about the condition of the blind in cities than about that of those in the rural districts, work was confined to the latter.

Owing to the fact that your Commission could not organize until the beginning of the summer vacations, and that these vacations still further delayed certain necessary preliminary work, scarcely more than four months remained for the prosecution of any kind of investigation, and little more than three months in which rural visitations could be conducted with any advantage. Nevertheless, in the brief time allotted, 960 cases were investigated, and such records concerning them obtained as would enable one to form a tolerably good estimate of the general condition of each. Although these visitations were made mostly in rural districts, their expense was but $626.72, or 65 cents for each person found; and they could be made in large towns and cities, and particularly in New York city, at a much less cost.

It is, therefore, greatly to be regretted that time did not permit the extension of the same methods to the blind of the entire State, since in no other way can a really accurate knowledge of their condition be obtained. Whether or not such knowledge would readily point out the way in which these conditions could be best relieved, your Commission will not undertake to assert.

The conclusions which your Commissioners have drawn from the data secured by these personal visitations are found at the close of this report, and several items of interest and importance are set forth in tabular form in Appendix C, page 60, which forms a part of this report.

CONSULTING THE ADULT BLIND OF NEW YORK CITY.

In lieu of personally visiting the adult blind of New York city, where the prevailing conditions were fairly well known, the following methods were adopted. Through the kind assistance of the Hon. Homer Folks, and also through the thoughtfulness of First Deputy Commissioner Dougherty, the latter of whom first suggested the plan, the Brooklyn member of your Commission was enabled to meet the adult blind pensioners of New York city, and a week later those of Brooklyn, as they came together to receive their annual pensions; and taking them in groups he briefly addressed each, telling his hearers about the appointment and objects of the Commission, asking them to think and talk the matter over among themselves and closing by inviting all who might have any opinion to express as to the nature of the recommendations which the Commission ought to make to your honorable body, to communicate that opinion to him either in writing, or by calling upon him at his residence, after which he handed his card to each. In this manner nearly all of the 1,000 pensioners must have been reached.

After this "The Adult Blind Union" of New York city, having secured a small hall through the good offices of the Hon. George P. Richter, and having also by means of the pension list notified selected persons to be present, invited the aforesaid Commissioner to attend and to give an informal hearing. This he did, meeting about 100 adult blind men and women, most of whom are trying to conduct some business for themselves. A little later he attended in Brooklyn a meeting of about 40 men who are engaged in industrial pursuits.

In both of these cases, after briefly explaining the objects of the Commission, a free discussion was invited upon any subject connected with the work of the Commission, and an informal system of questioning was employed by him. But the results of the method adopted at the distribution of the pension were not very satisfactory, since most of the writers and callers, who were not very numerous, merely wished assistance in getting their pension. Even the others only suggested matters which were subsequently discussed at the two informal hearings. These two meetings were therefore more satisfactory, although even in these most of the grievances complained of and most of the schemes for betterment require no legislation on the part of the State, being matters belonging exclusively to New York city, and being controllable by that municipality.

Although they would not take much trouble to make their views known, there appears to be a practical unanimity of opinion among the adult blind of the city of New York with regard to the following matters: First, the removal of all those obstacles which would prevent them from making their living in any way which does not conflict with the rights of others; second, no radical change in the present pension system; third, no attempt to compel them to go into a home for the blind; fourth, some legislation, if possible, to enable a blind person who is accompanied by a guide to travel for a single fare upon any railway, trolley or other public carrying conveyance within the jurisdiction of the State of New York, which last matter has been under discussion among the blind for several years.

These facts are not given as the views of the Commission, but as representing the thought of those of the adult blind reached by the Commissioner from Brooklyn.

GENERAL HEARING.

In addition to these informal hearings the full Commission on December 9th gave a public formal hearing at a meeting held under the auspices of the Buffalo Charity Organization Society, in the parlors of the Hotel Genesee in the city of Buffalo. This meeting was attended by a number of charity workers and by blind men engaged in various occupations. Several of these spoke before the Commission, giving their views as to the difficulties which the blind must meet and the manner in which they could be overcome.

INQUIRIES ABOUT BLIND IN ALMSHOUSES.

As another aid to ascertaining the general condition of the adult blind in the State of New York, your Commission addressed a circular letter to the superintendents of the poor of each of the counties of the State, with the exception of the city of New York, which almshouse was personally visited by one of the members of your Commission.

This letter failing to elicit the information desired, a second letter was subsequently sent, and as a result of these two letters of inquiry replies were received from all the counties in the State with the exception of ten.

A table showing by sexes the number of blind inmates in the almshouses of the State from which data were furnished forms Appendix D.

From these replies, as will be seen by reference to Appendix D, it was learned that only 1.79 per cent. of the blind in the State are found in the almshouses, and of these, so far as can be determined from the facts given, not more than one in ten would be fit candidates for an industrial institution of any character whatever.

EXISTING PROVISIONS FOR THE ADULT BLIND IN THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

In following the second line of their investigation, i. e., in ascertaining what public or private measures have already been adopted either here or elsewhere for bettering the condition of the adult blind, your Commissioners naturally first gave their attention to this State; and they have personally visited each home mentioned as being within its limits. They feel, however, warranted in asserting that beyond the limits of the five boroughs which compose the present city of New York there is, with the exception of the almshouse, no public or private provision of any kind for the adult blind. It is not even known that any adult blind persons are provided for in any home for the aged, although it is possible that such may be the case in a very few instances. It was therefore only necessary to examine the various modes of assisting the adult blind which have been inaugurated in the city of New York, all of which are maintained by the city or by private liberality.

I. CITY PENSION FOR THE BLIND.

So far as the adult blind of the Greater New York are concerned, the most far-reaching of all the charities, whether public or private, is the annual pension which the city grants to the majority of them. For the last forty years at least New York city has bestowed annually upon each adult blind person having no real or personal property, and not being an inmate of any charitable institution, a pension which has ranged from $35 to $50, the primary object being to help those who were trying to help themselves. When by the act of consolidation the Greater New York was formed this pension was extended to all the boroughs, the present charter providing that an amount not exceeding $75,000 in any one year might be appropriated by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment for this purpose, and that no more than $100 should be granted to any one blind person. As a matter of fact, however, the appropriation has never reached this limit, that for the last year being $49,950, giving to each accepted applicant $49. As might be expected from the growth of the city the number of these pensioners continually increases, and last August it reached 1,018, not counting those who applied but were rejected. To obtain this pension the applicant must fill out a certain blank. After this a public visitor employed for that purpose is supposed to call at the residence of the applicant, and also to take any other means which may suggest themselves in order to discover whether or not the applicant has made any false statements, and upon his report, provided the oculist who always examines his eyes concurs, the application is generally granted or denied. So far from being fixed by law the date of payment is exceedingly irregular; neither are the blind of Brooklyn and New York generally paid at the same time and never at the same place. Two or three days before the payment is to be made a postal is mailed to each applicant informing him or her of the date of payment, and this postal must generally be presented in person at the designated rendezvous, which is always the Department of Charities of New York or Brooklyn, as the case may be.

II. ADULT BLIND ON BLACKWELL'S ISLAND.

The almshouse system of Blackwell's Island also provides for a considerable number of adult blind persons. These persons are there of their own volition, and are in no sense criminals; those who are arrested for and convicted of vagrancy being sent to the workhouse on Hart's Island, the number of such commitments being, it is unofficially said, about one a month. Through the consideration and kindness of Commissioner Folks the blind on Blackwell's Island were separated from the other inmates of the almshouse and assigned two wards, one for men and the other for women; and in this way they have been enabled to fare somewhat better than their neighbors. When these wards (which are now called homes for the blind) were visited, they contained 67 men and 70 women, although the numbers of each are continually varying. Nearly all the women appeared to be old, and only two of them had ever been pupils of an institution for the blind; and these the records show to have always been somewhat deficient in intellect. Among the men the case was somewhat different, as eight of them had once been pupils in some school for the blind, and the average age appeared to be much less than that of the women. But even in this ward it would be doubtful whether more than a fifth of the inmates could be taught, or could follow any trade. Nevertheless Commissioner Folks some time ago started the broom industry among them, and as he was soon able to obtain all the brooms he required for his departments he was quite hopeful for the future of his undertaking.

III. PRIVATE HOMES FOR THE BLIND.

There are within the limits of the present city of New York four private homes for the blind, containing in all somewhat more than 150 persons.

Of these the largest is that maintained by the Society for the Relief of the Destitute Blind of New York City in the Borough of Manhattan, being situated at One hundred and fourth street and Amsterdam avenue. This is a home for both men and women, and maintains about 50 of each. It is supported entirely by private contributions, and although founded by an Episcopal clergyman, is now entirely nonsectarian. What industries are practiced are only for the benefit of the inmates and contribute nothing towards the support of the home.

The second in importance, which is called "The Industrial Home for the Blind," is situated at 512 Gates avenue in the borough of Brooklyn, and it is in reality a home for men only. This home aims, first, to make its inmates self-supporting by furnishing them with constant work in certain industrial pursuits while charging them a nominal board; and, second, to furnish work to those blind men who wish to work there but to live elsewhere. The trades followed are the making of all kinds of brooms, the cane seating of chairs and the making and renovating of mattresses. When this home was visited it was maintaining about 20 inmates, and furnishing partial work to about as many more, who may be called "outmates," although as it has abundant ground it is extending its accommodations. Nevertheless its superintendent, Mr. E. P. Morford, stated that the industrial department of the home barely paid its own expenses, so that the establishment is almost entirely dependent upon private liberality. This is the only industrial home in the State of New York.

There is also in Brooklyn a home for blind women, and it is now located at 550 Washington avenue. As the establishment was on the verge of financial ruin its care has been lately assumed by the Church Foundation of the Protestant Episcopal Church, although it is still open to all Protestants and receives some Catholics. When visited it contained 18 inmates, but no trades were followed.

There is also in the borough of Richmond, i. e., Staten Island, a combined school and home for blind girls and women only which is called the St. Joseph's Blind Asylum, and which is under the care of the Sisters of Charity. This home is at Mount Loretto, between Prince's Bay and Pleasant Plains, and when it was visited contained only 12 adult inmates. Nevertheless Sister Anne, who expended her own private fortune in erecting a most beautiful building, has accommodations for more than 100 inmates, and she will without doubt soon receive such contributions from Catholic sources as will enable her to provide for a large number of adults, together with the children.

It will thus appear that the public and private charities of the entire city of New York reach no less than 1,300 of the probable 1,800 adult blind persons of this city.

It will now also be evident why, in an earlier portion of this report, your Commissioners stated that the conditions of the adult blind of New York city were apparently at least better than those of the adult blind who reside in any other part of the State, and that hence the blind of that city were not anxious about State assistance.

EXISTING PROVISIONS FOR THE ADULT BLIND IN OTHER STATES.

Whether in the United States or Europe all the methods which have been adopted in order to ameliorate the condition of the adult blind may, your Commissioners believe, be classified under some one of the following divisions:

- (1) The giving of alms to them as mendicants simply.
- (2) The granting of pensions to them merely as indigent blind persons.
- (3) The establishment of homes for them in which they are required to do no work.
- (4) The endeavor to provide work for them in their own homes or elsewhere among the sighted; also when necessary to teach them some industrial pursuit in their own homes.
- (5) The establishment of industrial training schools in which the adult blind may be taught some suitable trade or business.
- (6) The establishment of industrial homes, i. e., homes in which the inmates are required at least to contribute towards their support by working at some trade.
- (7) The establishment of workshops, where the blind may work at certain trades but live outside.

(8) The offering of a combination of some of the preceding features, the last being the real status of almost every industrial home examined.

The first three of these methods may be regarded as charity simply, while the others are various methods for encouragement of self-help. Again, the first, second and fourth of these methods are aids requiring no establishment for the blind, while the others are dependent upon such establishments.

I. MENDICANCY.

Time did not permit, neither did your Commissioners feel it incumbent upon them to make any general inquiries as to the extent of mendicancy among the blind, although it is well known that direct personal gifts constitute the oldest and also the most common method of assisting those who have lost their sight, and it is believed that very many of the blind are dependent for their support either in whole or in part upon this form of charity.

II. PENSIONS.

Besides the pension system which obtains in the city of New York, the city of Cleveland, Ohio, grants a pension of $100, payable semiannually, to the blind of that city.

The General Assembly of the State of Illinois, in April, 1903, enacted into law a bill which provides that it shall be lawful for any county, at the discretion of the county commissioners or the board of supervisors, to contribute to all male persons over the age of 21 years and to all female persons over the age of 18 years who are blind the sum of $150 per annum, payable quarterly. The law further provides that "no person or persons who are charges of any charitable institution in this State or any county or city thereof, or persons having an income of more than $250 per annum, or persons who have not resided in the State of Illinois continually for ten consecutive years and in their respective counties three years immediately before applying for said benefit, shall be entitled to the provisions of this act."

The foregoing pension provision of the State of Illinois, together with the pensions granted by the city of New York and the city of Cleveland, are the only pension provisions in the United States which have come to the knowledge of your Commissioners, but in Great Britain the pension system seems to be much more general.

III. HOMES.

Except the homes already described in the State of New York, the only other home, pure and simple, which has come to the attention of your Commissioners is the one situated on Pavonia avenue, Jersey City, under the control of the Sisters of Charity and containing, when it was visited, more than 50 women.

IV. INSTRUCTION OF THE ADULT BLIND IN THEIR OWN HOMES.

The only exemplification in this country of carrying instruction to the blind in their own homes that has come to the attention of your Commission is that which is now in vogue in the State of Massachusetts. From the first and second annual reports upon this work, made by the Perkins Institution and Massachusetts School for the Blind to the State Board of Education, we glean the following information: "By direction of the Legislature in 1899 the State Board of Education made an inquiry into the feasibility of instructing the adult blind at their homes." The results of these investigations were submitted in a report to the Legislature in May, 1900, written by the able secretary of the State Board of Education of the State of Massachusetts, the Hon. Frank A. Hill. In consequence thereof the following act submitted by the committee on education was passed: "There shall be allowed and paid out of the treasury of the commonwealth a sum not exceeding $1,000, to be expended by the Perkins Institution and Massachusetts School for the Blind for the instruction of the adult blind in their homes; but no expenditure shall be made under this act until the plans of such instruction have received the approval of the State Board of Education. * * *

"The work was inaugurated on the first of November, 1900, by the selection of two teachers, themselves blind, and a third was soon added to the number.

"A thorough canvass of the cities and towns was then taken, in each of which the leaflets were freely circulated, and all through the newspapers, the schools, the churches and organized societies the attention of the citizens was called to the possibilities of the work and their cooperation urged.

"There are now (January 6, 1903) two men and two women engaged in the work, a fourth teacher having been employed since the first day of September, 1902. These, apportioning the different sections of the State among themselves, travel ceaselessly to and fro and make their arrangements so as to utilize time, distance and money to the best possible advantage, and to visit each pupil regularly and frequently.

"The following statistics will give in brief form a comprehensive view of the work accomplished for the years 1901 and 1902.

	1901.	1902.

The total expenses for the work from November, 1900, to the first of January, 1902, amounted to $3,583.15. The amount of money expended the second year is not shown in the report.

V. INDUSTRIAL TRAINING SCHOOLS.

The best known, if not the only industrial training school in the strict sense of this term, is the Connecticut Institute and Industrial Home for the Blind, located at Hartford. This is a combined kindergarten and industrial training school, the two being in separate buildings. The industrial training school department maintains of late from 30 to 35 pupils, and is for the blind of both sexes without any restriction as to age or marriage.

The General Assembly of Connecticut in 1893 passed an act creating a State Board of Education for the Blind, which consists of the Governor, the Chief Justice and two additional members appointed by the Governor for a term of four years. This board was charged with the educational interests of the blind of the State, both children and adults. They were empowered to make such rules as they deemed advisable in order to carry out the purpose of their creation. The applicants for admission are determined by this Board of Education upon the nomination of the superintendent of the institution. The appointments of adults are for the purpose of learning a trade, and are for a period of not exceeding three years, during which period the State appropriates $300 per annum. At the expiration of this appointment the State also permits an expenditure of not exceeding $200 for the purpose of furnishing the graduate with such tools or outfit as may be required for the trade that he has learned.

The superintendent reports that many graduates who are good workmen for others cannot succeed when they undertake to conduct business for themselves, and it is this fact that causes the superintendent to feel that the workshop feature will ultimately be added to the institution. The superintendent states that, of the 105 adults who have received industrial training at the institution, at least 50 per cent. are practically self-supporting. The trades or occupations which are taught and the number receiving instruction in each are as follows:

Broom making, 15 men.

Chair caning, 18 men and women.

Mattress making, 3 persons.

Upholstering, 1 person.

Piano tuning, 2 persons.

Printing, 16, mostly women.

Typewriting and massage, 2 each.

Cooking, 1.

VI. INDUSTRIAL HOMES.

The most successful industrial home in the United States for blind men and blind women is the Industrial Home of Mechanical Trades for the Adult Blind, situated at Oakland, Cal. Inasmuch as it was impossible for any of your Commissioners to visit this institution, information on several important points is less definite than is that concerning the institutions visited.

From recent reports and correspondence we glean the following information: This institution, established in 1887 by the State of California, by the appropriation of $65,000 for its support, has a capacity for about 110 inmates, only about one-fifth being women. The principal industries followed are the manufacture of brooms, mattresses and hammocks and the cane seating of chairs. The current expenses are apparently met by the proceeds of the labor of the inmates, but appropriations have been made by the Legislature for erecting and maintaining the necessary buildings. The proceeds of the labor for the fiscal year closing November 30, 1903, were $18,343.99.

Judging from the material at hand your Commissioners are of the opinion that the efficiency of this institution is due in large measure to the wise management of its superintendent, Mr. Joseph Sanders, a graduate of the New York Institution for the Blind.

VII. WORKSHOPS.

(1) The Columbia Polytechnic Institute, which was founded by Mr. Frank E. Cleaveland, is situated at 1808 H street Northwest, Washington, D. C., and is at the present time merely a small printing establishment, conducted almost entirely by blind persons. In this respect it only emphasizes the possibility of one of the trades already followed at the Hartford institution, with which establishment Mr. Cleaveland was formerly connected. But by the introduction of a simplex typesetter, which even when it is used by the sighted requires the services of two persons—one for the keys and one to justify the type lines—he has rendered it possible, as this latter person can also read copy while a blind operator plays the keys, to employ no extra hand to read copy, while at the same time much more work is done than could be accomplished by two compositors. But although Mr. Cleaveland's present plant is very small, employing about a dozen blind persons, and is also limited almost entirely to a single trade, his plans, if he can obtain the congressional aid which he has been expecting and which he still expects, seem very good. It is his hope to found an extensive institution or plant in which he can employ blind men and women upon the same conditions as if they possessed their sight, offering them a variety of trades and compelling them to find their own boarding quarters like the sighted.

(2) As your Commissioners did not visit the Indiana Industrial Home for Blind Men, situated at 1146 West Twenty-seventh street, Indianapolis, they will allow its superintendent, Mr. C. S. McGiffin, to tell his own story regarding it:

“Our institution is not a home, as its corporate name indicates, but it is a factory organized to furnish indigent blind men with employment. When we first filed the articles of incorporation in 1899 we were not sure at that time but that we might make it a home as well as a workshop, but after nearly four years' experience in this line of work all of our board of directors and myself have concluded that we can do more good and get better results by giving this class of unfortunates steady employment, paying them wages according to the quantity and quality of their work so as to enable them to support themselves either at their homes or boarding places. We hope in this way to place our workmen as nearly as possible on an equality with those who are not deprived of their sight.

“All of our workmen are engaged in the manufacture of brooms. We have been unable so far to find any other line of industry which they can work at nearly as successfully as they can at the making of brooms. During the year ending July 1, 1903, we completed and sold nearly 40,000 brooms. For this work we paid in wages to blind men $2,500. Our books show a deficit of only $62. We consider this a good showing, taking into consideration that since our beginning we have only received in contributions about $3,500, out of which we have paid for our building and machinery, the ground being donated, which only leaves us a very small amount for our working capital.

“We now have only 16 men on our payroll. They earn from $4 to $8 a week. We find ready sale for our output and we are always behind with orders. It has been our intention since the beginning to make this institution self-supporting, and we firmly believe that we can after we receive a sufficient amount of funds with which to operate our factory with a much larger force of men. We have applications from all parts of the State which we cannot take on account of the lack of funds. We are slowly but gradually increasing our capacity, and we are confident that we are building a good and substantial foundation for a model institution of its kind.

“ * * * In regard to age limit, I do not think it best to admit men over 50 years of age.”

(3) The following account of the workshop situated at South Boston is given by Mr. Anagnos, superintendent of the Perkins Institution and Massachusetts School for the Blind:

“This shop has neither organic nor any other connection whatsoever with the school, being an entirely separate establishment. Its work is purely industrial or mechanical and is carried on in a suitable building for the sole purpose of providing profitable employment for a number of blind persons whose character is blameless and who are both able and eager to earn their living through their own exertions.

“The transference of our salesroom and office to No. 383 Boylston street has proved decidedly beneficial to this department. Since this change of location took place there has been a steady increase in the business of the shop, and the time of all persons therein employed has been fully occupied. The ledger has been closed with a balance of $1,001 in favor of the department.

“Constant efforts have been put forth to facilitate the sale of useful and fancy articles made by blind women, most of whom are graduates of the school and live in their own homes.”

VIII. COMBINATION OF FOREGOING PLANS.

(1) The Pennsylvania Working Home for Blind Men, which is located in Philadelphia and is under the superintendency of Mr. H. L. Hall, himself a blind man, is primarily a combined manufacturing establishment and industrial home, but it also in certain cases may become an industrial training school, or even a home simply. The blind men whom it employs may either reside within the building or may board outside. In the case of the former a nominal charge of $2.25 per week is made, which is deducted from their monthly pay, while in the case of the latter, it is believed, payment is made each week. But a blind man who has not previously learned a trade may be received and instructed, and Mr. Hall laughs at the notion that three years should be given simply to teaching a man his trade, as he claims that by first putting him at the simplest part of any trade, e. g., sorting broomcorn and keeping him at that work, he can begin to earn something within three weeks. Moreover, when a man has once been received into the establishment and continues to conduct himself properly, he is not discharged on account of sickness or senility, there being in connection with this establishment what Mr. Hall calls the retreat and into which those who become unable to work are retired. In this retreat men are charged nothing for board, neither are they required to work at all, but for such work as they may be able and may choose to do they receive half pay, this money being given them without any deductions for their necessary living expenses.

The principal trade now followed is that of broom making, although the cane seating of chairs and the weaving of rag carpet are followed to some extent.

This home is supposed to receive a biennial appropriation of $35,000 from the State of Pennsylvania and an annual donation of $5,000 from the city of Philadelphia.

The establishment is run at a heavy loss, and it is not therefore able to receive all the worthy blind men who apply for admission, such men being placed upon the waiting list. When visited by your Commissioners the home was aiding about 130 men, although it is believed that the waiting list was even somewhat greater than that number. Mr. Hall's last biennial report shows that for the preceding two years there was a deficit of $55,800.24 in order to aid an average of 121 blind men, 47 of whom lived within and 74 without the building. This gives an annual deficit of about $230.78 for each blind person. To account for this deficit Mr. Hall says, among other things, that he pays about forty-five cents a dozen more for his brooms than sighted workmen generally receive, while he is compelled also to employ some sighted aid, all the items of cost being shown in his report. For the coming two years the State will be asked for an appropriation of $60,000 in order that those, or a part of those who are upon the waiting list, may be given employment. Indeed, Mr. Hall admits that it costs as much to furnish his men with work as to maintain them in idleness.

(2) The Working Home for Blind Women in the city of Philadelphia, which is a private charity, maintains about 40 working women and 20 who have become too old to work, no one being received who is not in good health or who is above 45 years of age. The annual cost of this home is about $12,500, i. e., about $200 an inmate, thus approximating to Mr. Hall's deficit.

(3) The Illinois Industrial Home for the Blind, situated in the city of Chicago, was not personally visited by any member of your Commission, the following account being gleaned from its report:

“This institution is designed to furnish such employment to the blind men and women of the State as will enable them to be self-supporting and self-respecting by the reason of their ability to thus maintain themselves. It was established in 1894 by the State. It provides work for 70 inmates, male and female, at an annual per capita cost of about \$400. Twelve workmen live outside and the rest live in the home. The principal industry pursued is the making of brooms. Some do piecework, others are paid by the day. The maximum week wages for blind inmates is \$1 per day, the minimum $66\frac{2}{3}$ cents per day. Thirty seeing people are employed in the institution. Ready sale for all articles manufactured is found.” The superintendent’s idea, as a result of his experience, would be to establish workshops for the blind, not homes.

(4) Wisconsin also has just undertaken a measure for the aid of the adult blind of that State which, as the plans are not yet fully perfected, will be best explained by the law, which is herewith subjoined.

“An act to provide the means of self-support to adult blind artisans and the means of instruction to those desiring to become artisans, and to appropriate money therefor.

“Preamble.—Whereas, there are many adult blind residents of this State who have learned trades, either at the State School for the Blind or elsewhere, but who are greatly embarrassed by reason of their infirmity in securing employment and who find themselves quite unable to compete successfully with those having sight, who are engaged in the same trades; and whereas, the State School for the Blind is not, and while it remains a school cannot, be adapted to furnish those adult artisans with proper facilities to pursue their respective vocations without serious injury to the school; and whereas, it is believed that if a place and some suitable appliances were furnished them, they could so compete and become self-supporting.

“To the end, therefore, that such reasonable aid may be extended to such persons as will enable them successfully to pursue their several vocations,

“The People of The State of Wisconsin, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

“Section 1. Duty of board of control; material and tools.—The State Board of Control is hereby authorized and directed, subject to the approval of the Governor, to procure a building, by lease or otherwise, or suitable apartments in some building situated in the city of Milwaukee, in which any blind citizen of this State having learned a trade may, if practicable, pursue his vocation on his own account and receive for his own use the whole of the proceeds of his labor. Such building or apartments shall be heated and lighted under the direction of the Board of Control at the expense of the State. As a general rule it is expected that artisans availing themselves of the privileges of this act will furnish their own materials and the tools required in their employment, but in cases of necessity the board may assist such workmen by furnishing for their use a limited amount of such tools.

“Section 2. Instruction.—The said board may also, in its discretion, provide means of instruction in such building or apartments to any adult blind resident of the State who desires to learn a trade, to enable such person to avail himself of the privileges and benefits conferred by this act.

“Section 3. Superintendent; compensation.—Said board is authorized to employ some person to have charge and superintendence of such building or apartments who shall direct what portion thereof shall be used by each person desiring to use the same. Said superintendent shall be paid a compensation to be fixed by the said board.

“Section 4. Appropriation.—There is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000) to be expended by the Board of Control in executing the requirements of this act during the current calendar year, and a further sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000) for such expenses during the year 1904. The expenditures under this act shall not exceed the sum herein appropriated unless the amount shall be increased pursuant to the provisions of section 563 of the Statutes of 1898.

“Section 5. This act shall take effect and be enforced from and after its passage and publication.

“Approved May 22, 1903.”

(5) After much consideration of the matter the State of Michigan last winter provided a plan for aiding the adult blind, which includes the establishment of an industrial home, the providing of free instruction and training, the establishment of an information and employment bureau, together with a circulating library. It also provides for the furnishing of a suitable outfit of machinery, tools, etc., for those who may need them in order to follow the trades which they have learned.

The general government of this institution is to be vested in a board of three trustees, exclusive of the Governor, who is a member ex officio, which board is to be called “Board of Trustees for the Blind.” This board is appointed by the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate, the full term of office of the members being six years; and it is also provided that one member of the board shall always be a blind man. No salary is paid, but its members are allowed their traveling and other necessary expenses.

The duties of the board are thus defined by law: “Said board of trustees shall have the power, and it shall be their duty, so to provide, equip and control the said institution as to carry into effect all the intents and purposes of this act; and to this end shall establish, open and regulate an industrial or polytechnic school and factory, a working home, and an employment and information bureau and circulating library, for the benefit of adult blind persons of good moral character, together with such other departments as in their judgment may seem wise and judicious and best calculated to promote the objects and the efficiency of said institution."

It is still further provided that persons of good moral character may be received into this institution between the ages of 18 and 60, and also, at the discretion of the board, those over 60; while with the consent of the Board of Control of the Michigan School for the Blind they may also be admitted between the ages of 14 and 18 years. It is also provided that the period of instruction in any particular case shall not exceed three years, the State meanwhile defraying all necessary expenses.

For the accomplishment of these purposes the State has appropriated the sum of $85,000 for the first year and $25,000 for the second year of the institution.

The act making these provisions is entitled: "An act to establish the Michigan Employment Institution for the Blind and provide for its management, to make an appropriation therefor, and to provide for a tax to meet the same," but as it is voluminous, consisting of fifteen sections, and as the details of this institution are not yet arranged, it is believed that the above synopsis will prove to be a sufficiently detailed account.

GENERALITY OF MOVEMENT TO AID THE ADULT BLIND.

If each of the provisions which have been previously mentioned be examined with reference to locality of inception or of operation, as the case may be, it will appear that the movement to aid the adult blind of the United States in some manner is very general among the people and States of the Union. This fact will be more evident from the provisions made by each State if examined separately.

(1) California has an industrial home containing considerably more than 100 adult blind persons.

(2) Connecticut has the largest, if not the only, industrial training school in the United States.

(3) From this training school the Columbia Polytechnic Institute of Washington, D. C., originated; and it may also be noticed in passing that there is a home for the blind in Washington which your Commissioners did not visit because it is small and possesses no industrial features of importance.

(4) Illinois has, by legislative enactment, founded a combined home and shop in the city of Chicago.

(5) Indiana has a true workshop incorporated as an industrial home, the home feature having been abandoned.

(6) The State of Iowa in 1892 founded an industrial home for both sexes, but being unwise in the selection of a small rural town as a site, and unfortunate in its management, it failed to retain the confidence of the people, the Legislature refused to appropriate the necessary funds and the institution has been compelled to suspend operations for the present, though the State still owns the property.

(7) It has also come to the knowledge of your Commissioners that a movement has been started in the State of Maine to found an "Industrial Home and School for the Blind," and the Legislature will at its next session be asked to appropriate a sum of money for its establishment. But as the plan is only in embryo, no definite information regarding it can be given.

(8) In Massachusetts a workshop for those of the adult blind who can avail themselves of its privileges is maintained under the control of the Massachusetts school. In addition to this, the movement for the instruction of the adult blind in their homes was initiated in this State; and in the last place, the State created last summer a commission similar to that which was created by your honorable body, the report of which commission has just been published.

(9) The State of Michigan appropriated last year the sum of $110,000 for the purpose of aiding the adult blind, although the institution which is to be founded is not yet in operation.

(10) In New Jersey there is a home containing about 50 women under the direction of the Sisters of Charity.

(11) The city of New York has for a long time pensioned most of its adult blind citizens, in addition to which private philanthropy has founded no less than four homes; but outside of the city the first movement to better the condition of the adult blind seems to have been made by the appointment of your Commissioners.

(12) To the State of Pennsylvania belongs the oldest and best known of all the employment agencies for the adult blind in this country, the Pennsylvania Working Home for Blind Men, and private philanthropy has founded a large institution for the maintenance of blind women.

(13) Last of all, the State of Wisconsin has appropriated money for an experimental training school and workshop for the adult blind.

Thus it will appear that, excluding the State of New York, a movement to ameliorate the condition of the adult blind has been felt in eleven States, as well as in the District of Columbia; and there can be little doubt that the impulse which has made itself apparent in these States is silently at work and will shortly exhibit itself in many others.

PROVISIONS FOR THE ADULT BLIND IN OTHER COUNTRIES.

No member of your Commission felt himself warranted in attempting a personal visitation of any of the establishments for the adult blind in Europe, although it is believed that some of these have reached a degree of efficiency higher than that which has been attained by corresponding institutions in the United States. Moreover, as the method of correspondence is always slow and unsatisfactory, requiring usually four or five letters of inquiry before the exact information desired can be obtained, your Commissioners found it advisable to confine their inquiries to Great Britain; and even here the letters and reports which have been received are not generally of such a character as would enable a person to form an accurate estimate of the true status of each institution with reference to the work of your Commission.

The most successful and most celebrated of all of the industrial institutions for the adult blind in the British empire is undoubtedly that which is situated in Glasgow, Scotland, and as the head of that institution recently visited the United States, it was the good fortune of one of your Commissioners to obtain a personal interview with him, from which he was able to form a very accurate notion as to the modus operandi of the establishment.

The Royal Glasgow Asylum for the Blind, under the superintendency of Mr. Thomas Stoddart, may be said to comprise three departments, the first being a common school, the second an industrial training school and the third a manufacturing establishment.

In the school the children are generally kept until the age of 16, although in a few cases this period is extended for one or two years. The number of pupils in attendance is usually about 80. After leaving school the pupil generally enters the second department, and he is there apprenticed to learn the trade which he intends to follow, the rules being the same as those which the trade unions prescribe for sighted persons. This department trains also those who lose their sight in adult life, and many such receive training.

As the three departments of this institution are for the adult blind of both sexes, the trades taught in this department are some for men, some for women and some for both; and these trades, which are nine or ten in number, omitting certain special cases, are the following:

(1) Basket making, which is practiced by men only.

(2) Mat weaving of many kinds, being practiced exclusively by men.

(3) Brush making, a trade for men only. In this connection Mr. Stoddart said that they had been able to secure contracts for furnishing such brushes or brooms as are employed in sweeping the streets of Glasgow or of other cities. It must, however, be borne in mind that broom making, as practiced in this country, cannot be followed in Glasgow, since it would be necessary to import, at great expense, all the corn required.

(4) Cane seating of chairs, a trade which is followed mostly, if not entirely, by women; and this is not peculiar to Glasgow.

(5) Mattress making, or as the report says, "bedding," a trade using the combined labor of men and women.

(6) Wire work, a trade which is followed by men only.

(7) Some kinds of carpentering are practiced by a few of the men, and one of them is even running a buzz-saw. For this Mr. Stoddart has been told that he was wicked, although he says that he does not think the man is in the slightest danger. They also make armorial shields for halls, and do much work which is thought to require sight.

(8) The cordage trade, which employs both sexes, is one of considerable extent.

(9) The sacking trade, involving various kinds of cloth work, is carried on by women only.

(10) Knitting, fancy work and general sewing are also learned by many of the girls; and Mr. Stoddart says that the most serviceable occupation which he has yet found for women is the use of the sewing machine. He always runs these machines by some power other than foot in order that the operator may be able to give her whole attention to guiding her work, and also because he thinks the blind women are physically weak and does not wish to weary them.

In the third, or manufacturing department, work is furnished to those blind persons who, having finished their industrial training, choose to continue their connection with the institution. This department generally employs about 200 blind persons, all of whom reside without the institution; and even in the other departments pupils are not only allowed but are compelled to live outside when it is possible for them to do so. The workmen are paid by the piece, and there is a system of grading according to the excellency of their work. For those of the first grade a minimum wage of 18 shillings per week is fixed; i. e., that wage is made up to them if they cannot earn it, while a very few have earned as much as 2 pounds per week.

All of the workers belong to a mutual benefit association, to which they pay 1 shilling per week, and which is managed entirely by themselves. Each member receives 1 pound per week during sickness, or as a pension when he is disabled by age; and in case of death 2 pounds are to be paid toward his funeral expenses. This society also sends visitors to investigate the condition of those blind of Glasgow who are not connected with the institution and to aid them with work.

In order to increase the sale of their manufactured goods Mr. Stoddart employs the services of traveling agents, and he also keeps on hand certain goods not made by the blind but of a character connecting them with such goods. Thus, to sell his bedding, he keeps bedsteads; and because he sells clotheslines, he keeps clothespins, etc.

While Mr. Stoddart admits that a shop maintaining one, or at the most two, trades, could be more easily managed than that which he controls, he does not agree with Mr. Hall of Philadelphia in thinking that it is advisable to thus restrict the industries for the blind. He says that whatever may be the conditions elsewhere, he is certain that he could not sell all the goods which his shop would turn out were his people confined to the pursuit of one or two trades only.

Mr. Stoddart's experience goes far toward answering the question as to the ability of those blind persons who lose their sight in middle life to learn and successfully follow any trade. For, owing to the conditions which prevail in Glasgow, there being many dangerous occupations among the sighted, e. g., the manufacture of dynamite, etc., many men have their eyes destroyed long after they have become adults. Hence many such persons have entered the training department, and he says that it has generally been found possible to teach them some one or more of the trades. This fact affords also another argument for a variety of pursuits, since many of those who enter the training department under the circumstances which have just been explained have at some period of life followed an occupation which is the same as or kindred to that which they now decide to adopt.

Mr. Stoddart thinks a city to be the best place for his or a similar establishment, since in a small community the colonization of a considerable number of adult blind persons whose support was not guaranteed from without would probably awaken a fear that many of them might ultimately become a public charge.

It may be added that the number of sighted persons employed in the shop is about ten per cent., and that the workshops are self-supporting.

In addition to this personal interview your Commissioners have also corresponded with and received letters or reports from 23 industrial and other institutions, list of which is given in Appendix E, page 65 of this report.

These letters and reports, however, while containing much valuable information which your Commissioners could supply to their successors, should they be appointed, are not of such a character as would enable a person in most cases to say what is the precise status of each institution with reference to the work of your Commission. It appears, however, that the larger of these institutions are conducted very much upon the plan of that which is situated at Glasgow, while most of the smaller are industrial training schools or workshops, and also that in Great Britain much more attention is given to the industrial than to the intellectual training of the blind.

There are also a few points upon which the writers of the letters are tolerably well agreed. The first is that, except for women, the adult blind should be furnished with workshops where they can work as "outmates" and not with industrial homes. Another point is that they should be paid trade-union wages, although it appears from the reports that it is necessary in many cases to supplement these by methods which need not be described here. The trades taught are also much the same in each, viz, brush making, basket making, cane seating of chairs and mattress making, which they call "bedding"; but there is, as might be expected, considerable diversity of opinion among these writers as to what trade or trades are best.

Besides the letters and reports to which reference has just been made, those who may be interested in the industrial training of the blind would do well to examine Armitage's "Education and Employment of the Blind" (1886); "Report of the Conference on Matters Relating to the Blind," held at Westminster in April, 1902; and Henry J. Wilson's pamphlet, entitled "Information with Regard to Institutions, Societies and Classes for the Blind in England and Wales" (1896), all of which will furnish much valuable information.

PREVENTION OF BLINDNESS.

Although your Commission has not been charged with the duty of investigating the causes of blindness, still it is evident from the work done elsewhere, especially in Great Britain by the Society for the Prevention of Blindness, that much can be done, particularly among young children, to prevent the loss of sight. The State has already taken cognizance of the importance of this fact by the passage of a law known as chapter 41 of the Laws of 1890, entitled "An act for the prevention of blindness." The first two sections of this law, giving in brief the provisions of the act, are printed in full.

"Section 1. Should any midwife or nurse, having charge of an infant in this State, notice that one or both eyes of such infant are inflamed or reddened at any time within two weeks after its birth it shall be the duty of such midwife or nurse, so having charge of such infant, to report the fact in writing, within six hours, to the health officer, or some legally qualified practitioner of medicine, of the city, town or district in which the parents of the infant reside.

"§ 2. Any failure to comply with the provisions of this act shall be punished by a fine not to exceed $100, or imprisonment not to exceed six months, or both."

Your Commission is assured that if work of this character were carried out more generally in conjunction with existing authorities sight might be saved in the case of many children where otherwise blindness inevitably results.

GENERAL CONCLUSIONS.

Although time did not permit your Commissioners to complete their investigations as to the condition of the adult blind of the State along the lines indicated, nevertheless the following general statements will, they believe, only be confirmed by more extended examination:

(1) The blind of the State are in general very poor, and they usually have as their nearest relatives persons who are not in good financial circumstances.

(2) At least 65 per cent. of them are too old to acquire and to follow any industrial occupation, while another and unknown proportion of them are physically or mentally unsound.

(3) In the case of many who are sound, long enforced idleness has destroyed the desire to work, so that it would require time to overcome the indolence to which they have become habituated.

(4) Most of the blind, especially among the women, do not travel far alone, and hence they must reside near their work or it must be carried to them.

(5) The adult blind of the Greater New York are apparently better situated than those of the rest of the State, and they do not therefore evince any particular desire for State assistance. But it is not intended here to assert that a more thorough investigation might not show these seemingly favorable conditions to be in reality no more advantageous than those which prevail in other localities.

(6) As a result of a personal visitation of nearly 1,000 of the blind of the State and of correspondence with the superintendents of the poor the Commission find that many of the blind, especially of the women, are for the most part comfortably cared for in the homes either of relatives or of friends. It would seem unwise under such conditions to cultivate the "institutional habit" by segregating those thus situated in homes especially provided for the blind.

(7) Extended experience in Great Britain and the United States seems to indicate that "workshops," for adult blind men at least who are of working age, are generally far more successful than are "industrial homes."

(8) The experience of all engaged in the education of the blind, and the facts gathered by your Commission in its work, prove conclusively that a few of the adult blind, even under existing conditions, become wholly or partially self-supporting.

(9) The experience of very many blind men who have endeavored to follow the trades learned at some school for the blind proves that, while the product of their labor would probably be of sufficient value to afford them a comfortable support, the time consumed in selling this product prevents them in reality from gaining such support.

(10) Your Commission believe that adults and children should not be trained in the same institution or under the same management. Some form of manual training for boys should take the place of the industrial training now conducted in schools for the young blind.

(11) Your Commission find that all attempts to combine industry and charity in the same establishment and under the same management have proved in every instance to be at best financial failures, and in its judgment such must continue to be the case since by this combination a premium is put upon idleness by giving the most charity to the least industrious person.

(12) It is generally recognized by social economists that, while the giving of pensions is the simplest method of aiding those who seem to require financial assistance, it is in a very large number of instances not only an unwise method but is demoralizing in its effect upon the recipients.

(13) With all the deductions that have been previously made, there are still very many adult blind men and women who are capable of being taught and of following some industrial trade for whom suitable provisions should be made.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

First.—We recommend that the work of personal visitation begun by this Commission shall be carried on and completed for the blind of the entire State.

Second.—We recommend that provision be made for the industrial training of the blind over 21 years of age—and to that end that in the city of Buffalo there be established tentatively, in a rented building, one industrial training school or “school-shop,” and that as soon as possible manual training replace the industries now followed in the State School for the Blind.

Third.—We recommend such modification of existing laws as will enable the blind to sell their products to State and municipal institutions.

Fourth.—We further recommend that measures shall be taken to determine the causes of existing blindness, and that such preventive measures be employed as will tend to lessen future blindness in the State.

Fifth.—To carry out the foregoing recommendations we finally recommend that there shall be established a permanent Commission; and in accord with the provisions of the act by which your Commission was appointed we herewith subjoin the draft of a bill embodying the recommendations contained in this report.

That the proposed legislation is in accord with a very general movement in Great Britain and the United States is evidenced, first, by the appointment in 1885 by the English government of “The Royal Commission on the Blind, Deaf and Dumb,” which did not issue its report until 1889; second, by the creation by the General Assembly of the State of Connecticut in 1893 of a similar permanent commission known as the “State Board of Education for the Blind;” and third, by the fact that the Massachusetts Commission to Investigate the Condition of the Adult Blind of that State, appointed in 1903, has just presented the draft of a bill which provides for the establishment of a permanent “Board for the Improvement of the Condition of the Adult Blind in Massachusetts.”

In conclusion we call attention to the appendices which form a part of this report, and which contain various information in statistical and tabulated form. By reference to the financial statement in Appendix F it will appear that less than one-half of the moneys appropriated for their work has been expended by your Commissioners.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSION,

BATAVIA, N. Y., February 1, 1904.

DRAFT OF PROPOSED BILL.

An act to provide for the appointment of a permanent Commission to supervise, direct and control the educational and industrial interests of the adult blind of the State of New York, and to make appropriations to meet the expenses of such Commission.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Within thirty days after the passage of this act, the Governor shall appoint a permanent Commission of three persons, which shall be known as the Commission for the Improvement of the Condition of the Adult Blind in the State of New York.

§ 2. The term of office of the Commissioners shall be three years, but of the first Commission appointed the term of one member shall expire at the end of one year and that of another at the end of two years. At the conclusion of the term of each his successor shall be appointed for a full term of three years.

§ 3. This Commission shall, as soon as possible after its appointment, meet and determine by lot the length of term of service of each Commissioner, as specified in section 2 of this act.

§ 4. The Commission shall, at its first meeting, elect one of its members as president, who shall preside at its meetings, and who shall have power to call meetings when it shall be deemed advisable.

§ 5. The members of said Commission shall serve without compensation, but they shall be allowed reasonable and necessary expenses incurred in the performance of their several duties as Commissioners, same to be audited by the Comptroller and paid by the Treasurer.

§ 6. It shall be the duty of this Commission to prepare and to maintain by personal visitation, correspondence or such other means as may seem advisable, a complete record of the adult blind in the State of New York, which record shall describe the condition, cause of blindness, capacity for educational and industrial training of each, together with such other facts as may seem to the Commission to be of value.

§ 7. It shall be the duty of the Commission to make inquiries concerning the causes of blindness, to learn what proportion of these cases are preventable and to inaugurate such preventive measures for the State of New York as may seem wise.

§ 8. The Commission may aid those of the adult blind, whom they consider worthy, in finding employment and may develop industry in their homes, or supply supplemental educational opportunities to those for whom such aid would be especially helpful. In furtherance thereof they may furnish material, tools or such other assistance as may seem necessary to an amount not exceeding $200 to any one individual, and may establish an exchange for the marketing of the products of their labor.

§ 9. The Commission shall, with the approval of the Governor, establish one or more industrial training or "shop-schools," and be empowered to equip and maintain the same, to pay to employees suitable wages and establish agencies for the sale and distribution of the products thereof.

§ 10. The Commission shall make an annual report of its proceedings to the Governor and the Legislature, and may make such recommendations, in the interest of the blind, as may be necessary.

§ 11. For the year ending December 31, 1904, in addition to the unexpended balance appropriated by chapter 576, Laws of 1903, the sum of $8,500, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated to carry out the work of the commission.

§ 12. This act shall take effect immediately.

OBSERVATIONS REGARDING CENSUS LIST.

While the census list was of great value and proved indispensable to the work of your Commissioners, still it would appear that by the exercise of a little more care on the part of the enumerators the returns might be made more trustworthy. In examining this list it was incidentally discovered that 253 names, or 4 per cent. of the whole number, had been altogether omitted. Again, out of 114 blind persons found in the almshouses of the State, 51, or nearly 45 per cent., were not found on the census list; and finally, in the personal visitation of 960 persons the names of 88 individuals, or about 6 per cent. of the whole number, could not be found on the census roll, while the names of 36 persons, or $3\frac{3}{4}$ per cent. of the whole, were erroneously reported blind.

QUESTIONS SENT TO THE SEVERAL INSTITUTIONS FOR THE ADULT BLIND IN THE UNITED STATES.

(1) What is the full corporate name of your institution?

(2) Where is it located?

(3) When was it established?

(4) How is it supported, by private charity or by the State or government?

*Not yet in operation.

- (5) Is the institution self-supporting?
- (6) If not, what is the yearly deficit?
- (7) What is the annual per capita cost of maintaining the institution?
- (8) How many inmates have you?
- (9) How many can you accommodate?
- (10) Do you admit both sexes?
- (11) Do you have a workshop in connection with the institution?
- (12) How many of the workmen live in the institution?
- (13) How many live outside?
- (14) What industries are pursued?
- (15) Which one of these industries is most readily learned by the largest number of blind persons?
- (16) Which is apparently the most difficult for them to acquire?
- (17) Does the industry most easily learned yield the greatest or least financial result?
- (18) Are the workmen paid by the piece, or by the day, week or month?
- (19) What was the minimum annual wage earned by any workman last year?
- (20) What was the maximum?
- (21) How many seeing people are employed in the institution?
- (22) Do you find ready sale for all the articles manufactured?
- (23) Does the State or Government aid you in disposing of your products by purchasing any of them for use in State, county or municipal institutions?
- (24) Are the inmates generally congenial to each other and loyal to the officers of the institution?

(25) From your experience would you advise the establishment of industrial homes?

(26) We should be very glad of any personal information regarding your institution which will aid us in making a report to the Legislature—anything which you would state in a personal conversation.

23	No. Sell to few State institutions but compete with seeing shops.	No	No	We have some trade with public institutions, but only through competition.	Sell to a few state and county institutions.
24	As a rule we have found them so. However, their management requires skill, knowledge and sound judgment.	Generally. As much so as if they were seeing people.	No	They are.
25	By all means. I wish we had a larger institution in this State.	Only as a last resort for homeless blind persons.	Most emphatically	No. My advice would be to establish workshops for the blind, not homes.	I surely would.
26	Intelligent management of blind institutions should begin the day they are founded. Great care should be used in having the blind understand the rules that are to govern them. They should be taught to do all things well and be made to realize that all their work must be equal to that of seeing men and women. If they are allowed to slight their work, the industrial feature of the institution will be destroyed, and failure instead of success mark their efforts.	Our institution is so unlike any other in this country that I found it impossible to answer some of your questions. We aim to make it as much like all other business establishments as possible except the dividend feature, and our success is not limited by the inability of the blind to perform their part but by the capital at our command, and the amount of work we are able to obtain in competition with other establishments.	During the ten years since this institution was started over 125 blind people have been helped from a condition of absolute dependence to one of partial or complete self-support. Many have been saved from suicide and insanity and are to-day useful citizens.

The taxes for the year 1902 are paid on the assessed real estate, and the buildings and furniture are all insured for the amounts as determined by the board of trustees.

All the rents have been paid by the tenants to the 1st instant, and there are no rents due.

The corporation has as a liability a promissory note for $11,000 with interest at 5 per cent., which is held by the People's Bank. This note represents the entire liability of the corporation.

The entire income from the out of town property is derived from the royalty on the oil wells in Cranberry township, Penn., which amounts to 376.45 barrels during the year.

The board of trustees by the death of Mr. Herbert Lawrence on September 30, 1902, suffered a severe loss. With that exception the membership is the same as at last report.

At the annual meeting held at the institution on April 16th, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Stevenson Taylor, President.

William H. Fletcher, Vice-President.

William H. Harrison, Secretary-Treasurer.

During the past year the following guests were admitted to the Home:

Augustus M. Shirley.....October 30, 1902

James M. Miller and wife.....November 20, 1902

Reuben Rawson.....December 20, 1902

	<hr/>

Present number of inmates:

Guests in the home.....	42
Students in the academy.....	39
	<hr/>
	81

Four of those who have died were among the earliest to enter the home, one being the first to enter.

During the year there have been at times three in the hospital, always one. Among the students there has been no serious sickness.

Date plates have been placed on the many models and objects of interest in the museum.

A number of improvements and alterations have been made in connection with the buildings and grounds which have added materially to the comfort and convenience of the inmates and to the appearance of the property.

The chaplain, Rev. Andrew M. Gay, pastor of the Fordham Methodist Church, has held services regularly at the institution on Sunday afternoons, assisted by Miss Grant, organist of the same church.

The annual commencement exercises of the academy were held June 5th, when diplomas were presented to a graduating class of seven, namely :

Herbert H. Christophersen.....	Orange, N. J.
John O. Crafts.....	Toledo, Ohio
William A. Gadow.....	Syracuse, N. Y.
Howard H. Hummel.....	Canton, Ohio
William E. Jackson.....	Fordham, N. Y.
Alfred W. Minuse.....	Toledo, Ohio
Watson C. Schreiner.....	Philadelphia, Pa.

Prizes for excellence in studies during the year were awarded to John O. Crafts, William E. Jackson and Alfred W. Minuse of the graduating class ; also to W. Selkirk Owen of the class of 1903 and to J. Fred Barber, Jr., of the class of 1904.

Immediately upon their graduation the members of the class of 1902 began their duties in the various positions which they had already secured. The undergraduates to the number of twenty-eight departed for their summer session of eight weeks at the following shipyards :

The Crescent Shipyard, of Elizabethport, N. J. ; The William Cramp & Sons' Ship and Engine Building Co., of Philadelphia, Pa. ; The Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co., of Newport News, Va. ; The William R. Trigg Co., of Richmond, Va. ; The Fore River Ship and Engine Co., of Quincy, Mass. ; John H. Dialogue & Son, of Camden, N. J. ; The Maryland Steel Company, of Sparrow Point, Md. ; Bath Iron Works, Bath, Me., and the Townsend and Downey Shipbuilding Co., Shooter's Island, N. Y.

To the above named concerns the academy is under heavy obligations for opportunities furnished the students to acquire much practical knowledge and experience unobtainable at the academy.

Acknowledgment is hereby made of the kindness of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Old Dominion Steamship Co., and the Maine Steamship Co., in furnishing the students transportation over their lines at reduced rates.

On September 10th, 11th and 12th a competitive examination was held for admission to the academy at which thirty-one applicants presented themselves, and of this number seventeen were admitted. The new year was begun with an attendance of forty-four, the greatest in the history of the academy, but since then five have resigned, thus leaving a present membership of thirty-nine.

The work in marine engineering has been along the same lines as during last year; some slight changes have been made in an attempt to extend the work.

The first and second classes have visited during the year the Continental Iron Works, where the whole process of the making of corrugated furnaces was seen and thoroughly explained; the Brooklyn Navy Yard, where shops and vessels were inspected; the works of the Townsend and Downey Co., and the Crescent Shipyards. These visits were of much practical use in connection with their studies.

In the department of naval architecture the students of the first class have followed the course of studies as in previous years, and have made all the calculations and working drawings of a wrecking tug and ice breaker, thus thoroughly preparing them for the duties of a shipyard draughtsman. They have visited the yards at Morris Heights and Brooklyn, where they acquired much practical knowledge.

The second class was divided into two sections, one section taking up the design of a large bulk oil steamer, the other a large modern cargo vessel, getting out the sheer draught, midship section, and other plans, performing the preliminary calculations for the design, as well as laying off a deep sea going tug to full size on the mould loft floor. They also made the various moulds and erected on the floor the after portion, showing the shape of the stern, plate edges, keelson and riveting.

The third class have been engaged on tracings and drawings of various details, thus familiarizing themselves with the drawing instruments. They have made the elementary calculations in naval architecture and made half models of various types of yachts.

The two upper classes enjoyed the privilege of witnessing the launching of the U. S. S. Chattanooga, at the Crescent Shipyard, Elizabethport, N. J., through the kindness of President Lewis Nixon.

Up to the present time six classes have been graduated from the academy, with a total number of graduates of 45, whose average earnings have exceeded $26 per week, and whose aggregate earnings for the past year have amounted to $62,500. Hence it may be readily seen that through the benefaction of the noble founder of this institution the academy has practically created the equivalent of a capital of $1,250,000, yielding 5 per cent interest per annum, in addition to providing a good home for many worthy old people.

All of which is respectfully submitted in behalf of the board of trustees.

STEVENSON TAYLOR,

President.

WM. H. HARRISON,

Secretary.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

New York State Soldiers and Sailors' Home

BATH, STEUBEN COUNTY, N. Y.

NEW YORK STATE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' HOME,

BATH, N. Y., November 12, 1903.

To the Legislature:

The trustees of the New York State Soldiers and Sailors' Home have the honor to submit their annual report of this institution for the year ending September 30, 1903, together with the reports of the commandant, quartermaster, engineer, surgeon and master mechanic, for the same period.

The total number of members, present and absent, at the close of the fiscal year, September 30, 1903, was 2,076, of which 1,718 were present; the average daily attendance during the year was 1,685, which is 4 more than during the past year, which year had exceeded all previous years.

The expenditure of money, and the improvements made during the past year, are given in detail in the reports of the commandant and other officers of the Home.

The resources for the year were as follows:

Maintenance appropriation.....	$225,000 00
--------------------------------	--------------

Of this amount—$225,000—the sum of $168,400 was reimbursed by the National Government for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1903, and was placed to the credit (General Fund in the Treasury) of the State of New York.

Other receipts: Miscellaneous sales.....	1,520 25
--	----------

$226,520 25

Total amount expended for maintenance	$224,052 30

---------------	--------------

Receipts remitted to State Treasurer	1,520 25

------------	----------

225,572 55

Unexpended balance.....	$947 70
-------------------------	----------

The cost of purchased rations was thirteen and one-half cents per day. The cost of clothing was eleven dollars and eighteen cents ($11.18) per year for each member. The average total cost of maintaining each member was one hundred and thirty-two dollars and eight cents ($132.08).

We respectfully recommend the following appropriations:

For maintenance, transportation, repairs and

betterments	$250,000 00
-------------------	--------------

For general repairs to buildings and improvements to grounds, etc.....	$8,000 00
New building for bakery.....	5,500 00

At the annual meeting in February, Colonel George W. Dunn was elected president; General Clinton D. MacDougall, vice-president; Captain O. H. Smith, secretary, and Major Benton McConnell, treasurer.

The late commandant, Colonel Andrew Davidson, died on the 10th day of November, 1902. His loss was greatly mourned and appropriate resolutions of condolence and respect were unanimously adopted by the Board of Trustees and spread upon the records of the Home. Joseph E. Ewell was elected commandant on the 8th day of December, 1902, and entered upon the duties of the office on the 1st day of January, 1903.

Dr. Michael J. Thornton resigned as assistant surgeon on the 31st day of May, 1903, and Dr. Clayton K. Haskell was appointed assistant surgeon on the 15th day of June. Dr. Thomas H. Cunningham resigned as assistant surgeon on the 30th day of September, and his position has not yet been filled.

Appended hereto are the reports of the commandant, quartermaster, engineer, surgeon and master mechanic. We also submit herewith the inventory required by section 20, chapter 413, Laws of 1897.

I respectfully submit the following list of appropriations for buildings and repairs, required to meet the demands of the institution for the coming year:

A new building for bakery to be constructed at a cost of $5,500. When the present building was constructed there were only 900 people in the Home. Additional capacity is required for baking, also room for storage of flour and bread; the floors are not able to support the weight of a car load of flour which is put in at one time, and has to be suspended by props in the room below which interferes with its proper use.

A horse stable and wagon shed to be constructed for work horses at a cost of $3,300. Also, a carriage house and stable for Headquarters and Commandant's house to be constructed at a cost of $2,500. The above buildings are to replace the old barns near the Commandant's house; these buildings are in a dilapidated and apparently dangerous condition. The floors of the stables are in part below the surface of the ground, and there is very poor ventilation, with no way to properly provide for it. The stable floors are laid on the ground and are sometimes flooded with water and are always damp, causing sickness of the horses and several of them have died within recent years. There is not sufficient storage room for wagons, carts and other implements and they consequently suffer deterioration from being exposed to the weather.

I recommend also, an appropriation for building a house of detention at a cost of $2,500 including equipment for same. The present lock-up is without sewerage or heating, and is not a proper place for the use for which it is designed.

The sum of $1,800 should be appropriated for constructing a new morgue in rear of hospital. The old morgue is wholly inadequate and much too small for present needs. The Home had a population of only a few hundred when it was constructed. It has no refrigerator or any proper means of preserving remains that are awaiting burial or shipment.

I recommend an appropriation of $1,100 for new metallic drying room in main laundry.

Also, the sum of $2,000 to purchase and grade 10 acres on Longwell farm adjoining old cemetery and for an addition thereto.

I recommend additional appropriation of $1,000 for cement walks.

For plumbing and fixtures in Barracks A, B, and C, the sum of $3,000. The plumbing in these barracks is entirely inadequate and unfit for use. Its unsanitary condition has been frequently commented upon in previous reports and in reports of State Board of Charities.

I recommend an appropriation of $1,650 for the purpose of constructing an addition to the hospital kitchen for dish-wash room and cold storage. The present capacity was only sufficient when the population of the hospital was 200. A population of 200 more in the new hospital barrack has now been added and the capacity is now wholly insufficient.

I recommend an appropriation of $330 for constructing three spray baths, two in the new barrack toilet rooms and one in the old hospital.

Also for alteration and improvements in the Engineer's department as specified in his report, the sum of $18,625.

Also, for installing a 40 horse-power engine to drive present and proposed new machinery in hospital laundry, the sum of $1,150.

For general repairs in barracks and other buildings, I recommend an appropriation of the sum of $8,000. There are nearly 50 buildings to be cared for, many of them old and all of them needing constant and extensive repairs.

The Home at the present time, November 12, 1903, has a population of 1,843. I submit herewith reports of the several officers for the past year. Dr. M. J. Thornton, assistant surgeon, resigned May 31, 1903, and Dr. Clayton K. Haskell was appointed assistant surgeon on June 15, 1903. Dr. Thomas H. Cunningham resigned as assistant surgeon on September 30, 1903.

Hospital accommodations have been inadequate up to the present time. The proper capacity of the old hospital is 200. In addition to those thus provided for, there were on the 1st day of October, 1903, 180 members in need of hospital treatment, who were obliged to remain in the barracks with such care as could be provided for them under those conditions. The new hospital barrack, a splendid building now about ready for occupancy, and which will accommodate 200 patients upon the two floors that will be used for hospital purposes, will afford abundant accommodations for the present. This will also, for the present, obviate the necessity of occupying the basements of barracks for dormitories, which has in the past proved to be in the highest degree deleterious and objectionable.

There are fifty cases of tuberculosis in the Home in active operation. It is probable that this number will be increased each year for some time to come. It would seem that some provision should be made in the near future to isolate those who are suffering from this malady, so that others may be protected from the danger of contagion. This danger is especially great in the Home, owing to the proximity of beds and the large number of persons occupying each dormitory. An isolation pavilion that would accommodate 60 persons would cost about $25,000.

Dormitories 27 feet by 104 feet with a height of 13 feet accommodate 44 men and the other dormitories have about the same cubic space for each person. It will thus be seen that there is great danger of contagion, especially in case of those who are feeble.

There is at present no method of ventilation in most of the old dormitories, except through open windows and doors. This is wholly inadequate in cold weather and doubtless much suffering and sickness has resulted therefrom. An appropriation was made by the last Legislature for the purpose of remedying this difficulty and as a result a complete up to date system of ventilation will be installed by means of additional hot air stacks, and ventilating shafts running through the roofs which will be equipped with steam heating pipes to insure proper circulation.

Persons entitled to admission to the Home are disabled union veterans of the civil war who have no other means of support and have been residents of the State of New York for a year previous to admission, or who served in a New York regiment during the war, and have not been members of other Homes during the previous three months. Those receiving a pension of more than $12 a month are not admitted unless there are special reasons therefor and in such cases the excess above $12 is retained by the Home.

Members are entitled to draw six dollars a month of their pension money while in the Home, and the whole balance upon taking a three months' furlough or a discharge. Any amount may be sent to dependent relatives at any time.

Good order has been maintained in the Home during the past year. Violations of the rules have been comparatively infrequent and generally trivial and there has been a gratifying diminution of disturbing influences. Firm but kindly methods and the able, vigilant and untiring labors of Chaplains, Rev. Edward B. Furbish and Rev. John F. Farrell, have been productive of the most satisfactory results. Public sentiment in the Home is emphatic in support of measures calculated to promote the best interest of its members.

The food supply during the past year has been ample and satisfactory in respect to quality, quantity and variety. The low cost of purchased rations per day, thirteen and one-half cents ($13\frac{1}{2}$) per day, is evidence that there has been no undue waste. A copy of the menu for October is hereto attached.

There has been a sufficient supply of suitable clothing. The cost per capita per year, $11.18, is possible only through a system of rigid bi-monthly inspections and a thorough, careful and well conducted system of renovation and repairs. Old suits that seem incapable of any further use after going through the second-hand clothing store are often restored to condition almost as good as new.

I desire to express at this time my profound appreciation of the able, earnest and unfailing support given to me by each and every officer of the Home.

I also give the names of all members of the Home, October 1, 1903, those present for duty, absent with leave, and in hospital, together with the company and regiment in which they served.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSEPH E. EWELL,

Commandant.

While the quantity and cost of coal consumed has greatly increased, it can be accounted for under the following heads, viz.:

The inferior quality of the coal received during the first six months and the greatly increased prices during the entire year.

Loss of heat by radiation from the thousands of feet of bare steam and return pipes in ducts and buildings, including the entire new piping in the boiler house.

Insufficient boiler capacity, which necessitates forcing the furnaces to the limit.

Increase in the running hours of the electric lighting plant on account of the fans in hospital.

Since July the electric plant has been run twenty-two hours per day in order to supply current to the fans in the hospital.

Nothing has materialized in regard to the new electrical equipment, and we will be obliged to add the lighting of the new convalescent barracks to the already overloaded plant, with a correspondingly poor service.

While the boiler house and its equipment have been modernized, there is still great need of more boiler capacity for good service and economy.

A contract has been awarded for installing a number of pressure reducing valves and traps; and for changes in return lines, and work has been commenced on same.

A contract has also been awarded for covering all uncovered steam and return lines, but no work has been done.

The parts of the boiler house intended for the engineer's office, storerooms, pump and engine room and the machine shop are still unfinished and vacant and are very much needed.

I respectfully recommend that the following appropriations be asked for:

For installing two 125 horsepower boilers and connecting up same.....	$5,200 00
For installing a power ash hoist.....	400 00
For installing a hot water tank for main bathroom	650 00
For more heating surface in main bathroom....	150 00
For finishing and fitting up the engineer's office, storerooms, engine and pump room and machine shop	1,000 00
For installing radiators in place of worn out coils in barracks G.....	275 00
For new coils in chapel.....	100 00

For additional equipment in proposed new dynamo room	$2,500 00
For 500 feet of 2½-inch fire hose.....	250 00
For an Edson pressure recording gauge.....	100 00
For a new system of conduits.....	8,000 00

SURGEON'S REPORT.

NEW YORK STATE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' HOME,

BATH, N. Y., October 1, 1903.

Col. JOSEPH E. EWELL, Commandant:

Sir—I herewith respectfully submit the surgeon's report of the medical department for the year ending September 30, 1903:

Number of patients in hospital September 30, 1902.....	185
Admissions during the year ending September 30, 1903..	681
<hr/>
Total number under treatment in hospital.....	866
Discharged, recovered or convalescent.....	543
Died in hospital.....	111
<hr/>
	654
<hr/>
Remaining under treatment September 30, 1903....	212
<hr/> <hr/>

Several members of the Home died outside of the hospital or soon after reaching hospital, as follows:

While on furlough.....	11
Soon after reaching hospital.....	6
Suddenly in barracks.....	3
Killed by railroad locomotives.....	2
Died in boiler house of apoplexy.....	1
<hr/> <hr/>

In addition to the above, two veterans were admitted to the hospital in a critical condition and died before their admission papers could be completed.

The number of admissions to the hospital was increased by seventy-six patients over last year and by 151 over two years ago. The average daily population of the hospital was 211, an increase of sixteen over last year. It is a pleasure to record thirty-seven less deaths than last year and three less than the previous year. This lowered mortality was probably due to the absence of epidemics of any character and favorable climatic conditions.

The total number of prescriptions filled was 42,430. The total attendance from the barracks at the two daily sick calls was 32,690, or a daily average of ninety men. This is an increase over last year of twenty men daily, or a total increase of 7,478 for the year. This increase of over twenty per cent. in the attendance at sick call well illustrates the rapidly increasing invalidism of the members of the Home.

The admissions to the hospital have increased twelve and one-half per cent. over last year, at which time we recorded an increase of fourteen per cent. over the preceding year. During this two-year period the population of the Home only increased five and one-half per cent.

The two upper floors of the new barracks just completed have been fitted up as an annex to the hospital. This increased hospital accommodation provides thirteen small wards of twelve or fifteen beds each, or a total of 170 beds. The wards are now being furnished and will soon be ready for patients. They will be occupied by all the sick now in the old hospital basement and the various barracks. The removal of 104 beds from the basements of several barracks to the lower floor of the new building can but have a salutary effect on the health and spirits of the men who were obliged, from lack of better accommodations, to live and sleep in the basements each winter for two or three years past.

The completion of the connecting corridor between the new building and the old hospital in front will permit this addition to be administered as an integral part of the hospital. This will immediately bring the hospital capacity up to 370 beds, and when necessary will permit an increase to 390 beds without crowding. It is a subject for congratulation that our hospital accommodations for the immediate future will be amply sufficient.

The usefulness of the isolation pavilion has again been demonstrated during the past year. Fifty-nine men have been isolated for periods of from twelve days to four weeks. Among the patients isolated were cases of erysipelas, infectious skin diseases and men from smallpox communities.

Owing to the prevalence of smallpox in Bath, all members of the Home were vaccinated in July, 1903. Since July, 1902, all new members have been vaccinated on admission.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

New Morgue Building.

I would again recommend the building of a new morgue. The need of greater space and better facilities for caring for remains that await burial or shipment is apparent at all times. A building containing an ice refrigerator capable of accommodating six or eight bodies at one time, a room for embalming and autopsies and an additional room for dressing and laying out remains preparatory to burial is needed.

Tuberculosis Pavilion.

A pavilion for the segregation of members suffering from consumption is needed. A reference to our mortality and hospital statistics show that the disease is slowly but steadily increasing here. From fifty to sixty are constantly present in the Home in which the disease presents an acute or active course. In the latter stages of the disease these men have been cared for in one of the hospital wards, but the means of isolation in the hospital, at the best, are very imperfect. With our present facilities complete segregation of the majority of the consumptives is impossible and the nontuberculous members are obliged to intimately associate with the tuberculous in the mess hall, bath and toilet rooms, and, worst of all, in the sleeping quarters in the barracks at night. A pavilion with separate kitchen, bath and toilet rooms large enough to accommodate sixty patients should be provided.

Additional Bathing Facilities for Hospital.

With the occupation of the new hospital annex the medical department receives an addition of 170 patients without any increase in bathing facilities, no provision being made in the new building for baths. The bathroom in the old hospital is too small to accommodate this increase. A spray bath cabinet could be constructed on each of the two upper floors of the new building at small cost. As fully one-third of the hospital patients are paralytic or crippled in some degree, provision should also be made for the installation of a spray bath outfit in the present hospital bathroom.

Changes in Hospital Kitchen and Additional Laundry Machinery.

Attention is directed to the crowded condition of the hospital kitchen. The installation of additional cooking apparatus to provide for the increased population has filled all available space. The dish racks and sinks that occupy the center of the kitchen should be accommodated elsewhere. With the increased demands on the kitchen the present hospital refrigerator is too small. An addition to the west end of the kitchen sufficiently large to provide for a dish wash room and refrigerator will meet present needs.

An additional washing machine and a larger engine are needed to care for the increased demands on the hospital laundry. The present equipment was intended to accommodate the laundry needs of 200 people. With the addition of the above machinery the laundry demands of 170 to 200 additional patients can be accommodated.

General Repairs.

The interior walls in several of the wards of the old hospital need repairs and the entire interior should be repainted. The old plaster ceiling of the second floor front should be replaced with steel sheeting. The rooms adjoining the matron's suite are useless in their present shape and should be remodeled to accommodate the men nurses, who are crowded in their present quarters.

Sanitary Condition of the Barracks.

The need for improved ventilation in the large barracks has long been recognized. Happily the appropriation obtained last winter for this purpose, in conjunction with the present heating methods, will provide a complete and modern system of ventilation that bids fair to answer all requirements.

I would respectfully renew my recommendations of last year that the unsanitary range closets in the toilet rooms of Barracks "B" and the old wooden sinks in all the barracks be replaced by modern plumbing.

In my report last year I called attention to the increasing difficulty of obtaining ward helpers from among the Home membership. Owing to the long hours of duty and the increasing age and infirmity of the men, few members of the Home are physically capable of performing the necessary work. As a result it has been impossible much of the time to promptly fill the vacancies that occur each month. My special report under date of May 14th covered this subject in detail. The prompt action of the Board of Trustees recommending the substitution of citizen help gave promise of relief, which, however, has not been consummated.

During the year two changes have occurred in the medical staff. It is with much regret that I have to record the resignation of Dr. Michael J. Thornton on May 31st, and Dr. Thomas H. Cunningham on September 30th, the former to accept another position and the latter on account of ill-health. The first vacancy was filled by the appointment of Dr. Clayton K. Haskell by the Board of Trustees. He commenced his duties on June 5th. To the professional attainments and conscientious co-operation of the assistant surgeons I am indebted for much that has been accomplished during the year. Few changes have occurred in the nursing staff. The nurses and other hospital employees have at all times been faithful and efficient in the performance of their duties throughout the long hours and daily routine of hospital work.

The names, date and cause of death of members of the Home who have passed away during the year, will be found appended to this report.

Respectfully submitted.

W. L. BABCOCK,

Surgeon.

REPORT OF MASTER MECHANIC.

BATH, October 30, 1903.

Col. J. E. EWELL, Commandant:

Dear Sir—I would respectfully report the following work and repairs done by this department since my report of February 6, 1903:

Under appropriation of $2,000 for grading cemetery, the balance of last year's appropriation, about $900, has been expended and the work is done so far as funds will permit.

Under appropriation of $4,000 for general repairs, the following work has been done:

A new skylight has been placed on operating room at hospital.

New gearing for operating skylight in hospital laundry installed.

Seventy metallic bars have been added to dry room at hospital laundry.

Walls at fountain near Commandant's house has been relaid.
Outside door put in dispensary.

Brick cornice and stone foundation at hospital repaired.

Two rooms at cottages have been papered.

A new roof put on cow shed at farm.

The floor over root cellar repaired.

A stone walk put down in front of new chapel.

Floors on corridors and in barracks have been repaired.

New concrete bottom put in silo.

Floors, steps and hatchway doors made and repaired at cottages.

Repairs on walls in Barracks A and C is now in progress.

Under appropriation for new barrack equipment,

Seventeen ward and hall tables have been made and put in place.

One hundred and forty-two feet of tables have been put in dining room.

Sink, table and shelving put in dish-wash room.

Thirteen bed screens made and placed in building.

The large wardrobes are being put in place.

The mop, broom and medicine closets are all nearly ready to be put in place.

One hundred iron beds have been painted.

Eighty-five small wardrobes have been repaired and painted.

Towel rollers have been put in the toilet rooms.

Under appropriation of $1,000 for cement walks, about 7,000 feet have been put down and the work is progressing as fast as weather permits.

Appropriation of $680 for connecting corridor between old and new hospital. This is under way and will be finished as soon as practicable.

Appropriation of $5,000 for new green house. This building is finished and now ready for use.

Under appropriation of $1,650 a new eating house has been constructed and is now in use.

All of the above work has been done under special appropriations, outside the regular work of this department.

Yours respectfully,

THOS. FOGARTY,

Master Mechanic.
